Key Mail Points Still Out

United Press International

Postal workers in a number of communities ended wildcat walkouts and returned to their jobs today, but New York and Chicago—the two largest and most important mail points—still were tied up as the strike that started six days ago reached an important crossroads.

The question to be answered was whether enough letter carriers would go back to their jobs to keep President Nixon from calling out troops to move the mails.

President Nixon was scheduled to make a nationwide radio and television address later today to outline what measures he will use to cope with the current postal strike.

A morning report by the Post Office Department said seven out of its 15 regions had no walkouts and that 98 per cent of the carriers were back at work in Boston.

But letter carriers in Chicago ignored the appeals of their union leaders and voted to stay off the job. Chicago is a central distributing point for the national postal system. Letter carriers in 23 suburban stations in the Chicago area voted to return to work but three—Aurora, Franklin Park and La Grange—decided to remain off the job.

About 200 clerks showed up for the morning shift in Chicago despite the strike vote.

James Rademacher, president of the National Association of Letter Carriers, said he would ask President Nixon to call for a start to negotiations. Rademacher was asked what he thought of the possible use of troops to deliver the mail.

"I don't want the President to use anything but his imagination to get this thing settled," he replied.

At a news conference Saturday President Nixon said he "had the means to deliver the mail and we will use those means." He promised, "On Monday I will meet my constitutional obligation to see that the mails go through."

Nixon did not specify but it was assumed he would use the National Guard or Army troops to get the mail moving. Maj. Gen. W.P. Wilson, chief of the National Guard, was in his Pentagon office Sunday mapping plans for possible mobilization. He said he could have his men together within 24 hours after getting an order to start action.

Rademacher said, "If I have to call a national strike, I will ask George Meany (head of the AFL-CIO) to get every member of the AFL-CIO to go out."

Rademacher was interviewed on the NBC-TV Today Show.

Government demands that all workers return before negotiations start appeared to have eased Sunday after Labor Secretary George P. Shultz met with leaders of the seven postal unions.

The issue is the claim by postal employes they cannot live on their salaries. They are paid $6,176 to start, with raises to $8,442 after 21 years.

Kingston Mail Ready but It's Not Going Anyplace

By NANCY SULLIVAN

KINGSTON

"The mail is all routed and ready to go but there's nobody to take it," Kingston Postmaster Oscar V. Newkirk said today.

Letter carriers in Kingston decided at 12:01 a. m. today to join the spreading nationwide strike. There is presently an embargo on all mail in Kingston.

According to Newkirk, there will be no mail going out of Kingston but mail may come in "depending on a change of flow of mail from other offices throughout the country that have been affected by the strike but whose personnel have since returned to work. Due to this situation, the postmaster added, there is a possibility of some mail reaching Kingston.

Newkirk said any mail that arrived prior to the strike and any mail that reaches here will be distributed to persons with boxes in the post office lobbies. "We will do everything in our power to distribute mail to post office boxes for boxholders," he said. All lobbies will remain open.

The postmaster said mail received in Kingston was being given out at the main office lobby on Cornell Street today. The distribution will take place until 5 p. m. Earlier, the distribution was in effect except for the normal 12:30 to 1:30 closing hour for lunch.

Newkirk stressed that telephone calls relating to arrival of mail will not be accepted. He said those who wish to pick up their mail must go directly to the main lobby.

Joseph Bonavita, president of the local Branch 550, Letter Carriers Union, said that mailmen in Kingston are following orders from the national union. This affects 41 letter carriers in Kingston and mail clerks. RFD men also have decided to honor the strike. Bonavita said "it's up to the government now" and he expressed hopes that some "action will be taken as soon as possible."

Leo Schupp, president of Local 4770 United Federation of Postal Clerks, said that the union met Sunday and voted to honor the picket lines of "our brothers, the letter carriers" effective at 12:01 this morning.

"This is a senseless situation which could have been prevented by effective leadership on the part of the President and the Congress.

"For years we have petitioned, pleaded — yes even begged for justice. The same voices in Washington and in the news media, which are now telling us that our grievances are justified, but that this is not the way to settle them, ignored and betrayed us time after time while we tried every legal means at our command.

"This is our last desperate recourse. Threats and the use of troops to move the mail no longer frighten us—they merely stiffen our determination."

Newkirk said that he is trying to devise some means of getting the mail delivered. Mail that came in prior to the strike is already sorted. However, this is according to route and not by streets.

There also will be no mail delivered to any of the 91 associate offices, which comprise offices located in parts of Ulster, Delaware, Greene and Albany Counties. The reason for this, according to Newkirk, is that there is no mail here in Kingston to send out because no mail is coming in.

One of the important things done this morning was to block off all street mail boxes. Any mail put in these mailboxes will not be picked up and Newkirk said that the letter boxes were being sealed as a reminder to the people not to deposit mail.

Clerks are authorized only to sell stamps. Parcel post cannot be received, nor can clerks take money order request forms. There are about 10 supervisors in the main post office to "operate 24 hours a day."

A Meeting of the Two Woodstock Cultures

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA

WOODSTOCK

Could Woodstock become an "experimental town" in which the two cultures—the Establishment and the philosophy and life-style of the hippie movement—seek ways to "communicate?" Could the art colony find a magic medicine to heal the split and breach the polarity now making the two "culture groups" move further and further apart?

The town should certainly try—and try seriously—if it is to "avoid chaos" this summer, says the We Movement. "What we must try to do in Woodstock is work out a treaty," argue members of the younger generation whose hair and dress signify a new and radical way of living.

To show their willingness to work constructively in helping to handle the major problems they foresee in a staggering influx of youthful outsiders to Woodstock this summer, many of the town's New Generation in residence have formed an organization called the We Movement. In a series of meetings in private homes and apartments, they have discussed at length the lack of communication between their group and long-time residents; have lamented the fact that "no one seems to be trying to find a point of contact."

Now they are making a concerted effort to work hand-in-hand with the Establishment. "People must come together," say Michael Green and Richard Cutler, two We Movement organizers. As a step toward bringing them together, they are holding a mass public meeting at Town Hall tomorrow night at 8 p. m.

What they hope to accomplish is a precedent-shattering arrangement whereby alienated youth and Establishment adults will work together to keep confrontations from occurring in Woodstock this summer. Tuesday night's discussion session at Town Hall, they feel, could bring more understanding between new and not so new Woodstockers, and some positive thinking on how to handle summer influx problems.

Special

"The protocol for the summer ahead must be defined," says Green, "if we are to avoid chaos." He and other We Movement members (many of them low tax-paying home and business owners; some even Chamber of Commerce and Jaycees members) are convinced that the word "Woodstock" has become a symbol to the young, because of the mammoth music festival that chose that name last August, and attracted hundreds of thousands to White Lake in the Town of Bethel. "Many more will come here this summer than ever before," he says, "and the situation will have to be handled."

What We Movement proposes is a "treaty" between Woodstock's present population on both sides of the culture gap in an effort to prevent trouble later. "If this community can learn how to live together, we will have something very powerful—a force that will unite us for the good of our town," reasons Green.

When We plays host to the Establishment Tuesday night, New Generation leaders hope for concrete proposals that will prevent trouble, confrontations, traffic jam-ups, crowded streets and sidewalks, harassment and arrests. And they evidently intend to offer help from their side in informing outside summer visitors of Woodstock's laws and ordinances, and helping to patrol the town and woodlands. They will also be looking for help from town officials and older residents in "channeling" the crowds to areas other than the center of town by providing an assembly site, possibly a music and crafts center.

There can be no question that the life-style of the hippie movement is definitely now a part of the Woodstock community. By buying homes, opening businesses, and becoming taxpayers over the past several years, they are a very visible segment of the town. As such, they feel their concern for Woodstock's problem is as great as the concern and fears of others.

"We want help from the Establishment to keep those who have a lust for the quick buck from taking over," says Green. "That goes for hippie head shops (trinkets and junk) as well as for high rents and high bread prices in the delicatessens."

Nixon Makes It Official— NO on Israeli Jet Sale

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers called a news conference today to announce the administration's refusal—for the time being—to grant Israel's full request for more than 100 new warplanes.

President Nixon, in an informal meeting with newsmen Saturday, spelled out the reasoning behind the administration's long-awaited decision on Israel's bid, though he left the actual announcement up to Rogers.

Nixon termed it an interim decision based on the current U.S. analysis of the military balance in the Mideast, and he warned that upsetting that balance could raise the danger of war.

He said the recently reported Soviet shipments of new SAM3 antiaircraft missiles and military personnel to Egypt have not significantly shifted the balance, nor are future French deliveries of some 100 modern Mirage jets to Libya earmarked for action against Israel.

"What I am saying basically," Nixon said, "is that the United States intends to continue to watch the Mideast situation to see whether further shipments of arms or personnel to the Mideast does tip the balance in a way that it would be necessary for us to provide some assistance--additional assistance--to Israel, so that they would not be in an inferior position."

The United States is reported still delivering at about four a month the 50 supersonic F-4 Phantoms that Israel bought in 1968, and it has shipped about 50 of 80 A-4 Skyhawk jets that nation ordered.

In Jerusalem Sunday, Foreign Minister Abba Eban took issue with Nixon's analysis to the extent of saying the new Soviet SAM deliveries to Egypt had added "an entirely new dimension in Soviet involvement in the Middle East" and had brought about "a change for the worse in the balance of power."

Albertini Half Point From State Victory

KINGSTON

"There is always next year."

Thus Francis J. Albertini reacted to his close race in the New York State American Legion oratorical contest. The John A. Coleman High School student took second place in the state competition Saturday at Pittsford, losing by half a point to Anthony Herrling of Loyola High School, New York City.

Albertini, who had won school, county, district and zone oratorical honors on his way to the state competition said Saturday's contest was extremely well matched. Contestants were well prepared and the close judging took 45 minutes of deliberation.

The contest, sponsored by the American Legion, centers on the Constitution. In addition to a prepared speech, orators must be prepared for an extemporaneous dissertation selected at random by the judges.

Albertini received an award of $1,000 for the state's second spot with $2,500 going to the first place winner. Nominal cash awards were presented on the elimination levels. Zone first place honors carried a medal award.

Scout Spectacular Takes to Space

Journey into Space theme earned grand champion honors for Cub Scout Pack 7, First Presbyterian Church, at Saturday's Scout Spectacular. Admiring their winning exhibit are Vinny Dingman, Robert Murphy and Stephan Richter. More than 3,500 scouts and spectators took part in the annual competition at the New York State Armory. Blue ribbon booth winners were Troop 9, 10 and 11 of Kingston, Troop 26 of Port Ewen and Troop 34 of Woodstock; Cub Packs 7 and 9 of Kingston and Pack 26 of Port Ewen. President's awards went to Troop 10 of Kingston and Troop 26 of Port Ewen with special awards going to Troop 15 and Pack 15 of the Emma Wygant School. Seven Boy Scout and four Cub Scout competitions in knot tying, fire making and relays were held in conjunction with events. Sheriff William B. Martin and Kingston Mayor Francis R. Koenig participated in the largest spectacular ever staged locally. (Freeman photo by Kruh).

Girl Victim In City Fire

By WALTER S. CLARK

KINGSTON — Fire that swept through the front rooms of the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Rowles Sr., at 17 Clinton Avenue, claimed the life of a second child who died Saturday night at the Albany Medical Center burn department.

She was 10-year-old Cheryl Rowles, who suffered fourth degree burns of 90 per cent of her body in the Thursday night blaze that killed her 6-year-old brother, Ronald.

Funeral services for the two victims of the blaze were scheduled to be held this afternoon at the Jenson and Deegan Funeral Home, Inc. 15 Downs Street. Burial was to be in Montrepose Cemetery.

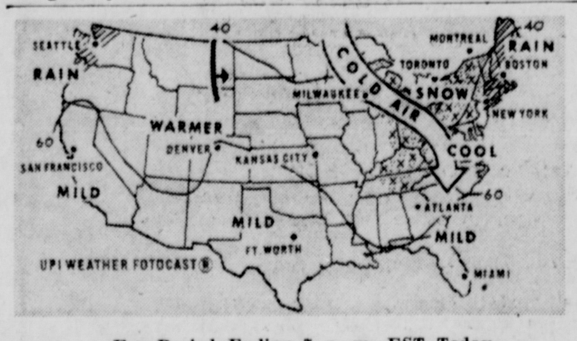

The two children were in the front bedroom of their home on the first floor when the fire occurred. They both apparently had been trapped by the intense heat and dense smoke.

Mrs. Rowles and her other four children, Richard Jr., Bryon Michael, Kathy and Donna, escaped from their burning home unharmed. Ronald was pronounced dead on arrival at Kingston Hospital. His sister, Cheryl was rushed to the same hospital for emergency treatment and later transferred to the hospital in Albany.

Frank Fatum of Fatum's Ambulance Service and three city firemen were injured at the scene of the fire. They were treated at the hospital and released.

According to Detective Lieut. Charles McCullough, who directed investigation into the origin of the fire with officials of the fire department, said Mrs. Rowles told him that the youngest child had matches in his hand when he hurried from the front bedroom. The matches were taken from the child and his mother ran to Fatum's to report the blaze after she made an unsuccessful attempt to quell the flames.

Area residents rallied to the aid of the homeless family, donating household articles, clothing and sums of money.

A Pointed Welcome

WEST POINT, N.Y. (UPI) — Maj. Gen. William A. Knowlton was officially welcomed to West Point today, succeeding Maj. Gen. Samuel W. Koster who relinquished his highly prestigious post as commander after being implicated in the alleged My Lai massacre in Vietnam.

Knowlton, 49, was welcomed in an honor guard ceremony at Trophy Park. He became the 49th superintendent in the 186-year history of the United States Military Academy.

Knowlton, like Koster, a graduate of West Point, was born in Weston, Mass., and lists Springfield, N.H., as his hometown. Knowlton was graduated with the Class of 1943; Koster with the Class of 1942. Both have sons attending West Point.

Koster, 50, was the highest of 14 officers named last week in preliminary charges. He was transferred to Ft. Meade, Md., to face further investigation and possible court martial. Knowlton actually assumed his new duties Thursday.

Koster served as commanding general of the Americal Division at the time of the My Lai incident in March of 1968, and one company from his division swept through the My Lai area.

He is charged with an unspecified number of violations for "failure to obey lawful regulations and dereliction in the performance of his duties." Each violation provides a maximum penalty of two years. Details of the specific charges have not been made public.

Prior to his appointment by Army Secretary Stanley R. Resor, Knowlton was secretary of the Army General Staff at the Pentagon. He served in Vietnam from August of 1966 until he returned to the U.S. for the Pentagon post in July of 1968.

Koster returned from Vietnam three months after the incident at My Lai and was named commandant of West Point on June 26, 1968.

Knowlton served as a platoon leader with the 3rd Army during its dash across France near the end of World War II and was a reconnaissance troop commander during the Battle of the Bulge.

His decorations include the Distinguished Service Medal, the Silver Star with two Oak Leaf Clusters, the Legion of Merit, the Distinguished Flying Cross and the Bronze Star with combat "V" attached.

He received the Silver Star for leading a reconnaissance mission behind German lines to make contact with Soviet forces north of Berlin in World War II.

400 Toast City's Former Mayor

FORMER POSTMASTER CONGRATULATES FORMER MAYOR

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

More than 400 persons, believed to be a record crowd jammed the Gov. Clinton Hotel Saturday night to honor former Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan at a testimonial dinner.

The Crystal Room was filled; the corridor between Crystal Room and the garden room were filled and another 50 persons were seated in the Garden Room. Closed circuit television was used to relay the speeches to those persons who were not seated in the main room.

County Democratic Chairman Aaron E. Klein was the master of ceremonies and termed the dinner "a truly ecumenical gathering." Speakers included former Postmaster General James A. Farley, Mayor Francis R. Koenig, Alderman-at-Large T. Robert Gallo and City Judge Hubert A. Richter.

Farley said he has known Garraghan since the former mayor was a youth in Haverstraw, N.Y. "I haven't always agreed with him," Farley said. "I don't think anyone has. But I can't quarrel with anybody who has an opinion and sticks to it. I disagreed with (former President Herbert) Hoover and (former Senator Robert) Taft but I always respected them for their opinions."

Farley spoke on a wide range of subjects, particularly in the political area.

On New York City Mayor John V. Lindsay: "Lindsay is the most inept mayor New York has ever had."

On modern politics: "There's no loyalty in the parties these days. The country grew in strength because of the two-party system. They don't make a contribution to our country. They're only concerned about patronage."

On Arthur J. Goldberg, contender for the Democratic nomination for governor: "It's hard to feel friendly for Democrats who want to seek the nomination for governor after they supported Lindsay" (Republican mayor).

On seeking office again: "God willing, I'll be 82 in May. I'd be crazy to seek any political office."

The postal strike: "They've been headed for this strike for nine months. It's too bad it took place. The postal workers have never been paid properly. I tried to get them more money when I was postmaster general. The President must see that they're properly compensated."

Mayor Koenig termed his predecessor "a courageous mayor who met the problems headon. He didn't pass the buck to the Common Council."

Gallo said that Garraghan "did an outstanding job" while in office.

Richter said that Garraghan united the city. "Last fall a young lad tried to divide this city. But Ray's seeds were too well planted. So was that young opponent."

Richter termed city hall downtown the "connecting link between the past and the future. 'It's our duty to carry out his (Garraghan's) dreams."

Garraghan spoke about early discrimination against the Irish. "Forty-five years ago an Irishman was allowed to enroll in the Republican party in Ulster County. That's when he knew he had it made."

Garraghan reviewed his four years in office, drawing laughter from the crowd in several instances. On city hall downtown: "A lot of people say I want city hall downtown to help build up Father (Edward I.) Farrelly's church (St. Mary's). That's really not true. The big point is to get the downtown urban renewal area built up."

The dinner was sponsored by the Democratic City Committee. It's chairman, Lawrence E. Woerner, presented Garraghan with a tie pin decorated with the party's emblem, the donkey. Garraghan's comment: "Jackass studs in a tiepin! I'll wear it proudly."

Cuffed Students Arrested for Rt. 28 Hitching

TOWN OF HURLEY

It cost two Long Island college students $10 each early Sunday after they were arrested for hitchhiking on Route 28 in this township by Troopers R. J. Houst and J. D. Pitcher of the Kingston State Police.

Troopers said the two students from Nassau County Community College were handcuffed when they were picked up. They apparently had been left in the area by other students as part of a fraternity initiation.

Arraigned before Town Justice Alton Boyce were Harry Schall, 18, of Hicksville, and Irving Schwebel, 20 of Oceanside. Each pleaded guilty and fines of $10 were imposed.

Troopers removed the handcuffs that figured in the initiation incident.

Fish on PO Strike: Leadership, Restraint

KINGSTON

In twin moves Sunday, Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr., wired President Richard M. Nixon urging administration leadership in ending the spreading postal strike. He also wired members of the United Federation of Postal Clerks urging them not to join the illegal strike.

Here in Ulster County, Assemblyman H. Clark Bell, while commenting that the strike is not a state matter, did say, however, that he does not condone illegal action of any kind even though the postal workers demands may be justified.

Fish in his letter to the President said, "Respectfully urge positive administration leadership ending postal strike now reaching emergency proportions. Respectfully suggest your leadership in calling a meeting between the administration, House and Senate postal and Civil Service leaders and responsible leaders of national postal unions.

"Believe prime need now to show postal workers that Congress and Administration are aware of problems and are taking action."

In his wire to the United Federation of Postal Clerks at Poughkeepsie, Fish urged strongly against the illegal strike stating that such action would prove counter-productive in postal employe demands.

In explaining his action, Congressman Fish said, "This strike is illegal and cannot be permitted to continue. On the other hand, many of the postal workers demands are justified. This strike is a wildcat strike of frustration among lorg-term, responsible postal employes.

"I wired the President as I did because the leadership to end the present strike obviously lies with the Administration."

Rep. Fish told the postal workers in his wire to them.

The postal strike began at midnight last Tuesday when the 6,700-member Manhattan-Bronx branch of the letter carriers walked out. Other postal workers respected their picket lines ...up quickly spread throughout Long Island and then throughout the country.

Vassar Receives $ Million Grant

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. (AP) — Vassar College announced over the weekend the receipt of a $1 million donation from Mr. and Mrs. William C. Ford. The money will go to the school's $50 million fund drive, a college spokesman said.

Ford is a director and vice president of the Ford Motor Co. and a grandson of Henry Ford, the corporation's founder.

Mrs. Ford is a 1946 Vassar graduate.

The gift brought to more than $7 million the amount collected since the drive opened in September 1969.

The spokesman called the donation one of the largest in the school's history.

Duryea May Effect Rescue

Abort Bill Faces First Assembly Test

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Senate-approved abortion bill faced its first test in the Assembly today—at the hands of a hostile committee chairman who would like to kill the measure.

There were signs, however, that Speaker Perry B. Duryea was prepared to step in and make sure that the bill reaches the Assembly floor for debate and a vote.

The bill was lodged in the Assembly Codes Committee, headed by Prescott B. Huntington, a Suffolk County Republican who says it is far too permissive to suit his taste.

It would rescind the restriction in the present law, which permits abortions only to save the woman's life, and leave the decision, instead, entirely to the woman and her doctor.

Huntington planned to bring the measure before his committee at a meeting this afternoon to determine whether it should be reported in its present form to the floor of his house, reported with amendments or killed.

There was a possibility, however, that Duryea might ask Huntington to transfer custody of the bill to the Rules Committee, which Duryea heads. Kinder treatment of the measure thus could be expected, since Duryea is strongly on record for liberalization of the state's 87-year-old abortion standard.

Indications were that the bill would reach the floor, in one form or another, and be brought to a vote this week, probably on Tuesday or Wednesday.

The timing depends to some extent on handling of Gov. Rockefeller's budget, which also is to be debated and passed early this week. Legislative leaders do not wish to schedule two major debates on the same day.

The legislature's Republican majorities agreed last week to cut $117 million in spending items from Rockefeller's proposed $7.27-billion budget, dropping the outlay to $7.14 billion. The revised budget bills were reprinted over the weekend and will be ready for consideration Tuesday.

Action on the budget will signal the start of the leaders' drive for final adjournment of the 1970 session by mid-April. Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges has set two, alternative target dates—April 9 or April 16.

Passage of the budget will move the legislative machinery into high gear, because many other bills that have been held in abeyance then may be moved through the bill. Under terms of the State Constitution, the lawmakers may not pass any appropriation bills of their own origin until they have acted on the governor's spending plan.

The legislature's Democratic minority leaders, Sen. Joseph Zaretzki and Assemblyman Stanley Steingut, said they would make their own budget-cutting and spending recommendations today. They have been clamoring for greater increases in public-school aid and more liberal allowances for welfare recipients.

The legislature's work week, beginning with the usual Monday afternoon sessions, is expected to extend into Thursday.

Doubts Faster Move on Desegregation

WASHINGTON (AP) — A top administration civil rights official says President Nixon's promised "comprehensive analysis" on school desegregation cannot have much effect on efforts to integrate classrooms.

Jerris Leonard, chief of the Justice Department's Civil Rights Division, said Sunday:

"Really, irrespective of what anybody says about it, the legal process is in motion and it's going to be accomplished at least for all practical purposes.

"Therefore, there's little the President can do by saying something to speed it up. It just can't be done any faster."

In a Saturday session with newsmen, Nixon promised his policy statement Tuesday on desegregation will be "the most comprehensive analysis of the legal situation and also of the problems of segregation" since the historic 1954 Supreme Court order to end segregated schools.

Leonard said the President's statement "certainly will not in any way inhibit the progress that we have tried to make over the past 14 months in enforcing the school desegregation laws."

But, he went on, "There's no such a thing as a clarion call that sets one and only one standard, a direction, one approach to a very difficult problem that must be analyzed on a case by case and individual by individual school district."

Following this line, the Justice official said statewide desegregation suits are being considered now against North Carolina, South Carolina, Arkansas, Mississippi and Florida.

Doomsday for separate black-white school systems is next September, he said, and "it's obvious that some rather massive activity is going to have to take place between now and then."

Leonard spoke on the CBS radio-TV interview program "Face the Nation."

Earlier in the weekend, James Farmer, the administration's highest ranking Negro, said the President's statement would put to rest any idea that the administration has backed away from integration.

"I have seen parts of the speech," Farmer said, "and I look with anticipation to the statement in the next week that the President will make."

Farmer, assistant secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, indicated hope Nixon's statement would help ease the great concern he said is felt by blacks about White House racial policies.

Another leading Republican, Senate GOP Leader Hugh Scott, also spoke during the weekend about concern over Nixon and racial policies.

Reverdy Wadsworth Dies, Kin Steep in Tradition

GENESEO, N.Y. (AP)—Reverdy Wadsworth, a wealthy Livingston County banker and farmer whose family has included a secretary of state, two congressmen, a Civil War General and a U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations, is dead at age 55.

He was stricken Saturday night while dining in a restaurant in the village of Caledonia. He was chairman of the Genesee Valley National Bank and Trust Company board of directors.

Wadsworth, the owner of JR farms, is survived by his wife Eleanor, his brother James J. Wadsworth and his sister Evelyn. He is also survived by a son, Harry R. Wadsworth of Denver, Colo.

Evelyn is the wife of Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) Eleanor is related to the late Presidents Franklin and Theodore Roosevelt.

James J. Wadsworth became ambassador to the U.N. in 1960. He also served as a member of the Federal Communications Commission during the Eisenhower administration.

Other prominent Wadsworths have included:

—James Wadsworth, the founder of the family. He came to Geneseo in 1790 and was once believed to own more land than anyone else in the United States.

—Maj. Gen. James Samuel Wadsworth, James' son. James S. was killed during the Civil War in the Battle of the Wilderness. He was a founder of the Republican Party.

—James Wolcott Wadsworth Sr, James Samuel's son. He was a member of the House of Representatives for 25 years and also served as New York State comptroller.

—James Wolcott Wadsworth Jr., James W. Senior's son and Reverdy's father. James W. Jr. became a member of the House in 1932 and helped write the Selective Service Act. He also served in the U.S. Senate from 1914 to 1926, and was a speaker of the New York State Assembly. He died in 1952.

Reverdy Wadsworth's maternal grandfather was John Hay, secretary of state to Presidents Theodore Roosevelt and William McKinley and a confidential secretary of Abraham Lincoln.

Reverdy Wadsworth received the bronze star during World War II. He fought in the Battle of the Bulge and at Bastogne as a second lieutenant in Gen. George Patton's Third Armor Division.

After the war, he joined the national guard and retired in 1957 as a major.

He was a member of the Geneseo State College Board of Trustees and a member of the board of the Livingston County Historical Society. He was also active in the Boy Scouts and the Red Cross.

Funeral sevices will be held Tuesday.

Doctor O.K's This Hemorrhoid Treatment For N.J. Couple's Son

Treatment Shrinks Piles, Relieves Pain In Most Cases

Wharton, N. J. Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Jeffers report: "Our son suffered from hemorrhoids. I asked the doctor about Preparation H and he gave us the O.K. Our son is now fine, thanks to Preparation H."

(Note: Doctors have proved in most cases—Preparation H® actually shrinks inflamed hemorrhoids. In case after case, the sufferer first notices prompt relief from pain, burning and itching. Then swelling is gently reduced.

There's no other formula for the treatment of hemorrhoids like doctor-tested Preparation H. It also lubricates to make bowel movements more comfortable, soothes irritated tissues and helps prevent further infection. In ointment or suppository form.)

Hartley and Lamouree Celebrating 30th Year of Continuous Service

SAUGERTIES

The 30th year of continuous service by the Hartley & Lamouree Funeral Home, 8 Second Street, this village, is being marked this year. The firm was founded in 1940 by Henry S. Hartley and Henry A. Lamouree. The latter retired from business in 1950.

This will also be the thirtieth year that Hartley has served as president of the company. During the past year he also became associated with the R. J. McConekey Funeral Home at 100 Main Street, Saugerties. In 1968 Hartley was elected president of the Saugerties Savings Bank.

When asked for the secret of his business success, Hartley said he had no secret. He stated that his philosophy has been to treat people fairly and honestly and follow the golden rule. Hartley's firm is a member of the Order of the Golden Rule, a business association which selects one funeral director in each community after a thorough investigation of its background and business practice. Hartley said he was proud that his company was selected for membership.

Hartley is also a member of the National Funeral Directors Association; the New York State FDA and is past president of the Catskill Mountain FDA. He has been Ulster County coroner since 1963, most recently reelected in 1968. Hartley has also been active in the Masonic Lodge, IOOF and is a Shriner and the Saugerties Methodist Church.

He attended Penn State College and Eckels College of Embalming, receiving his New York State License in 1931. Hartley and his wife Emily reside at 37 Finger Street in Saugerties. Their daughter Mrs. Howard Potter and her husband and two children reside in Rye.

Joseph L. Brown, director of the Kingston Laboratory of IBM's Systems Development Division, has announced three promotions. They are James C. Greeson Jr. (L) to senior engineer in the division; John B. McKeehan to senior programmer and Frank V. Windes (R) to promotion manager of the IBM Systems Development Division. Greeson, joined IBM in June 1959 as a junior engineer at Endicott. He resides in Woodstock with his wife Jean and the couple's three children. He earned his bachelor of science degree in electrical engineering from St. Louis University, and holds a master's degree in electrical engineering from Syracuse University. He has received a number of invention awards at IBM. McKeehan joined the firm in September, 1960 as a systems engineer in Washington, D. C. He holds a bachelor of arts degree from George Washington University and attended American University for two years. He and his wife, Juanita and the two children reside in Millwood. Windes joined IBM in October 1956 as a design engineer in Poughkeepsie. He earned a bachelor of science degree in electrical engineering from the University of Michigan. Windes, his wife Donna and the couple's two children reside in Pleasant Valley.

GRADUATE—William J. Fitzgibbon, vice president of Kingston Trust Company, was among 49 graduates who successfully completed the four-week course of the Executive Development School conducted by the New York State Bankers Association at Hotel Thayer, West Point. Presenting the diploma is Bert Muench, director of education for the NYSBA. The graduate completed the course of study in the latest developments of bank management, operations and administration.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, MARCH 23, 1970

Small Guy Hit Twice

The not-so-rich Americans—and they are legion—have fallen on sad times. First, the stock market, the same market that begged and cajoled the small man to invest only short years ago, is giving him a wide berth. The reason: Small purchases of stock make for bookkeeping jamups, and are unprofitable. So now, many—not all—brokerage houses are saying in effect, "We wanted you then, but you're now more bother than you're worth, so please leave us alone. We want only big-money men."

As if that weren't enough, those "little people" who were able to cough up $1,000 could buy a Treasury bill, which until recently paid as high as 8%. This was attractive, especially at a time when the rate of inflation was about 6% a year, making U.S. savings bonds more appealing from a patriotic than from an economic viewpoint. Treasury Secretary David Kennedy really put Treasury bills beyond reach of all but the unduly affluent when he ordered the minimum purchase increased to $10,000.

Mr. Kennedy appeared almost sheepish in "explaining" that the small saver could still buy saving bonds. The strong suspicion in Washington is that he set the new stratospheric minimum after bowing to the pressure exerted by lobbyists of the savings and loan associations. They have been seeing deposits withdrawn by persons who wanted to put their resources to the most productive use. Now this device for keeping head above water has been taken away.

It's all a bit soul-shaking, this idea about turning America into a nation of capitalists, enabling each citizen to have a piece of the action—but then suddenly making a new set of rules that makes him ineligible to play in the game. No one minds the little guy taking part—until it hurts someone bigger. And the bigger they are—and the bigger their lobbies—the surer they are of winning.

Fewer Summer Jobs

For several years, big drives have been mounted from Washington to get summer jobs for underprivileged youth. Business firms made room for them and, in smaller communities, government chipped in both on the federal and state levels; and in the metropoli, on the city level. These drives were headed by the Vice President of the year. The funds were appropriated by the Office of Economic Opportunity.

This year a total of $35 million has been earmarked nationwide for youth programs by OEO, but with new guidelines. These require that youth development programs must be year-round, comprehensive economic opportunity projects emphasizing youth involvement. Programs devoted exclusively to recreation, camping, cultural enrichment and other leisure time activities will not be funded.

In other words, there will not be any money for boondoggling, if that term is still viable. The object now is to build lasting jobs. No longer is the aim to cool tensions by giving youth something, anything, to do. OEO has always sought to find work opportunities. Making it the basic aim should help youth and the country, too.

Egypt is working hard to get financial help to build a Suez to Alexandria pipeline for its Red Sea oil fields, to compete with oil piped through Israel's Eilat to Ashkelon pipeline. Both countries are bypassing the canal. It is simple wisdom not to reopen it in the midst of conflict and risk its destruction.

Mapmakers Guide Mankind On Land, Water and Space

By ERNIE HOOD
Distributed by NEA

Man has long depended on cartographers (mapmakers) to guide him in travel and exploration.

Modern mapmakers give our astronauts a far better picture of the moon's terrain than Columbus had of the western Atlantic. Today's cartographers, armed with computers, electronic distance-measuring instruments and other sophisticated equipment, have a big edge on the chartmakers of the 15th century. About 10,000 of these workers are employed in America.

In constructing a map, the cartographer:

Appraises and selects aerial photographs, statistical reports, surveyors' findings, older maps, and other background data on which to base a new map.

Decides on the features to be shown and the best way to achieve a legible, uncluttered result.

Lays out the specifications for the job, including map scale and appropriate projection a system for representing curved surfaces on flat surfaces).

Decides what colors, shadings, type size to use and where to place such features as the legend, scale and index.

Basic requirement for most cartographer's jobs is a college education, with emphasis on engineering. The wider the cartographer's knowledge on a variety of fields, the better.

Maps and charts are produced for the special purposes of a highly varied list of users: highway engineers, military personnel, historians, tourists and marine and air navigators.

Consequently, although a cartographer needs many of the tools of a geographer, he also needs some ability as a scientific researcher, a historian and a political scientist. Occasionally he needs the knowledge of a statistician, and always to some degree he must be an artist.

Among college courses that will help him most are astronomy, cartography, engineering science, geodesy, geography, mathematics, photogrametry, physics and surveying.

The cartographer should be neat and accurate and have a sense of order. Cartography also demands an ability to concentrate, as well as an eye for details.

Cartographers work for commercial map companies, oil companies, newspapers and publishing companies, transportation firms and state, county and municipal government agencies.

The largest number of jobs are in the federal government.

For a professional cartographer's position with the government, beginning at GS-5 (annual salary $7,206) or GS-7 ($8,914), an applicant usually needs a bachelor's degree, received within the two years preceding his application; course work should have included five semester hours of mathematics and 19 semester hours of physical science.

However, accumulation of enough technical experience in mapmaking to substitute for the college work can qualify an individual. Usually on-the-job experience needs to be bolstered with college-level courses.

Formal and on-the-job training and promotion programs help the professional advance to the GS-11 ($11,233) level after a few years — the minimum is 2½ years. Top level for cartographers is GS-15 (beginning at $21,589 a year).

Candidates for jobs as "technical aides" in mapping and geodesy must have completed two years of college including 24 semester hours of science and math.

Trainees learn map compilation and preparation by the latest technological methods. At the same time, they gain experience in the maintenance of computer systems and work with automated cartographic equipment.

The Army Topographic Command also employs "cartographic aides." These workers often are high school graduates. High school courses must include a year of algebra and an additional year of mathematics or physical science.

For many, cartography offers considerably more than just a livelihood. Preparing a precisely scaled and carefully drafted map — one with just the right color shades for its projected use and with towns, cities, rivers, and lakes labeled clearly — can be a satisfying artistic accomplishment.

On April 14, America will observe the 105th anniversary of the assassination of Abraham Lincoln at Ford's Theatre in Washington. It remains an event more melancholy than historical; a national stain punctuating the end of a Civil War.

The plotters were punished. The innocent were also flogged with solitary time. One of the few loose ends concerns an energetic scene shifter at the theatre whose name was Edman Spangler, but who was called Ned.

At 9:30 that night, John Wilkes Booth rode a mare down the alley behind Ford's Theatre. John Miles, a Negro who worked high in the theatre flies, could look downward and out and see Booth, the famous actor. Miles, watching the play "Our American Cousin," heard Booth call "Spangler!" twice.

Miles saw Spangler leave his post from behind the scenes and go out the back door. From the pantomime, John Miles guessed that Booth wanted Spangler to hold the horse, and Spangler kept pointing in toward the theatre, probably protesting that he had scenery to shift. Spangler went back inside, and sent a boy named Johnny Peanuts to attend to Booth's mare.

For this, a military court, after hanging the main conspirators, sent Spangler to Dry Tortugas, a strip of sand 65 miles west of Key West, to rot in eye-blinding sunlight. Others went too—including Dr. Mudd, who put a splint on Booth's broken leg. I have received a letter today from Mrs. Harold L. Pierce of Milan, Illinois.

Some of her antecedents were named Spangler. Mrs. Pierce began to hunt Spanglers. This led her to Aledo, Illinois, where she discovered an attic full of century-old copies of the Aledo Weekly Record. She blew the dust from them and examined Vol. 9, No. 17, Oct. 25th, 1865. A small headline stated: "Letter From Edman Spangler; He Asserts His Innocence."

It was written from Dry Tortugas Island and stated: "My dear friend, I take my pen in hand to write to you these lines to let you know that I am well and hope you are the same. This is a purty hard place to live. The sun is very hot and we have hard grub, salt horse and one pc. bread. We sometimes gets soup. There is some small fish in the break water that we can catch from our cell window but we have no fish hooks small enough here.

"Have no money to send for them. . . . There is about 500 prisoners here. We have the privleige of going over the whole island. It is about 13 acres of sand and a fieu trees. You have no dowbt been acquainted with the facts and circumstances of my trial and imprisonment. Nothing I can do or say can alter the opinion of the world or the public.

"Before God and all that is sacred I am perfectly innocent of all charges and specifications brought against me by the prosecution. I have no knowledge or idea of enything nor did I aid or assist the villian or the assasen of the President either before or after the assanation.

"He asked me to see to his horses which I did. He said that he would make me a handsomed presen which he did—six years of Dry Tortugas. . . . He came to the theatre, called me and asked if I could hold his horse which I declined for the reason I had my work to attend to on the stage. I called Peanut John to hold his horse who held him until he came out after murdering the President.

"I never shut the door after his escape nor did I know nor had anything to do with the mortice in the wall or boring the whole. . . . All this I was charged with as being guilty or suspioned of having done but efore God, who I know will find me accountable if I lei I knieu nothing or herd nothing about the existence of any such a thing until after the assassionation when I was asked concerning it all.

". . . please send me some small fish hooks some 2 or 3 fly hooks in a letter and money to buy some postage stamps and some paper. . . ."

In August, 1867, yellow fever broke out at Dry Tortugas. Many died. Dr. Mudd helped when the prison doctor expired. He was paroled two years later. Spangler was freed in Feb., 1869, dying of tuberculosis. Dr. Mudd took the man to his home in Bryantown, Maryland, and ministered to Spankler until he died.

The sweetest gesture of the whole story was the hanging of Mary Surratt. John Wilkes Booth despised and distrusted her and told her nothing of the assassination of Lincoln. As Mrs. Surratt was executed, on a hot July day, a government soldier protected her head from the sun with an umbrella. . . .

Tax Man Has Problems With Cheating Minority

By TOM TIEDE

WASHINGTON — (NEA) Come clean now.

You're filling out income tax forms for 1969. You earned a flat $8,000 and had normal deduction allowances. But there is a small rub. You also had some great hands at your regular Saturday evening poker parties. And, in fact, you earned an extra $500 from them over the year.

So, question: (a) Do you lawfully list the $500 and pay taxes on it, or (b) do you ignore the money and figure no one in government will ever know?

If your answer is (a), you fall into the category the Internal Revenue Service calls "the average taxpayer." You are part of the overwhelming number of citizens who are honest and above-board.

However, if your answer is (b), you're not exactly alone either.

Nobody knows how many "average" people make small-time manipulations on tax returns. Most of the thousands of persons convicted each year of criminal tax fraud are large-money operators. But the probability is the "average" taxpayer is not so honest as the IRS has traditionally maintained.

In fact, the probability is the IRS doesn't really believe the "average taxpayer" bit either. A number of working agents hold conflicting private views.

Says one IRS investigator in the national headquarters:

"There is no way of telling how many average people cheat on their returns. You can only guess on your experience. But, personally, I think a whole lot of them are doing it to some degree. And I don't know how true it is, but I've been told by some of our people here that all this (average taxpayer) cheating adds up to many billions of dollars every year."

Any student of human nature, certainly, might agree. The ways of manipulating figures on tax returns are many, the chances of a small-time manipulater being caught are few. And so, in the words of one long-time IRS man, "For every cheater we catch, thousands more get by free."

Not that it's all so easy for the cheats. Hardly. IRS computers now scan the nation's 77 million annual returns with programmed memories that can spot many irregularities. Thousands of tax experts are stationed to determine if such irregularities are honest or deliberate errors. And some 1,900 IRS special investigators (of the Elliot Ness "Untouchables" ilk) are ready to investigate any indications of criminal tax fraud.

This network can grab the big and the small.

Last year, as an example, the IRS web investigated 117,000 allegations of tax fraud — and among many, many others uncovered a clergyman in Chicago who lied on his forms, a city attorney in New York State who was fined $1,000 for delinquency and an ex-IRS agent who falsely filed for $50,000 in refund claims.

There was also the housewife in California. She was nabbed for failing to file on her husband's income. Ever. She explained that she was going to file once, in 1953, but she forgot to mail the forms. So discouraged was she with this oversight, she just didn't bother with taxes again for the next 15 years.

But even though the IRS does often unmask the tax cheat, it is, in truth, seldom the "average taxpayer." Mostly it's the big fellows — the Mafia enforcer who fails to report $350,000 income, the Army officer whose forms never mentioned the $60,000 he makes in Saigon's black market, the lumber company executive who diverts over $1 million from company to private funds.

Now and then, a federal agent will investigate a mechanic who paints houses on the side and doesn't report the earnings. But very, very seldom.

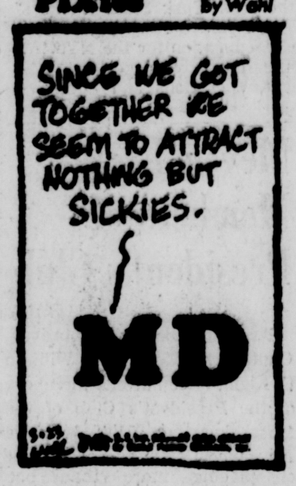

"We just don't have enough men to bother with the small stuff," says a top field agent. "We've got 1,000 in the investigation division, but only 1,000 are field agents. Twenty-two per cent of our energy is spent on racketeers; we are now having a big push in the area of corporations. There is endless paperwork and long hours involved. We can't spread out any thinner."

If the cheat number is large, it will probably continue to be so. The entire tax collection structure is built on the principle of voluntary self assessment. And besides, according to tax men, there just isn't any great clamor in the nation to crack down on small tax cheaters.

Sighs an IRS man:

"You've got to remember that there is no stigma attached to tax evasion in this country. It's illegal, but people don't look on it as being like stealing or the like. Almost the opposite, in fact. I'll send a company vice-president to prison this year for tax fraud. Next year he'll get out, go back to his company — and be president, probably. There's just no stigma. People don't condemn tax cheating. I don't know why. Maybe the reason is because so many people are guilty themselves."

Wallace, Support Holding Up, Still Thorn in Side of GOP

PRINCETON, N. J., March 23 — The Republicans could look forward to the 1972 presidential election with greater confidence if they could find a way to remove George Wallace from the race.

Wallace, who won 13.6 per cent of the national vote and 43.6 per cent in the South in the 1968 election as a third party candidate, is still a thorn in the side of the Republican party, particularly in terms of the GOP's Southern strategy.

If Wallace should be defeated in the upcoming primary in Alabama on May 5, in which he is again a candidate for Governor, this, of course, would likely eliminate him from the 1972 race.

The ex-Alabama Governor has defied the usual fate of defeated third party candidates. In a survey completed March 2, he runs about as strongly now as he did in the election, receiving 12 per cent of the vote in a survey re-match against President Nixon and Hubert Humphrey.

Nixon, in this survey test, outdistances Humphrey by 54 to 34 per cent. Nixon, it will be remembered, won a razor-thin victory in 1968.

Southern Strategy

The GOP has worked to improve the party's image in the South and, with the aid of Vice President Spiro Agnew, has tried to win support away from Wallace.

Current survey evidence proves the logic of the Republican strategy. When Wallace is eliminated from the "test election" race question, his supporters go to Nixon by roughly a 5-to-1 ratio in the 13 states of the South and by nearly 2-to-1 outside the South.

Here is the first question put to a national sample of 1192 registered voters in the Feb. 27-March 2 survey:

To get some idea of the national political situation at this early stage, suppose the presidential election were being held TODAY. If Richard Nixon were the Republican candidate and Hubert Humphrey were the Democratic candidate and George Wallace ran again as a third party candidate, which would you like to see win?

The national results follow:

Nixon	54%
Humphrey	34
Wallace	12
	100%

(The above table is based on those with a preference. An additional 7 per cent had no preference.)

These persons who chose Wallace in the first question were asked this next question to find out how they would divide between Nixon and Humphrey in the event that Wallace is not a candidate:

Suppose Wallace were not included, which candidate would you prefer—Nixon or Humphrey?

Here are the national results and the findings for the South and non-South. In each case the undecided vote was excluded:

NATIONAL

Wallace vote goes to
Nixon 76%
Humphrey 24
(28% were undecided)

Non-South

Wallace Vote goes to
Nixon 67%
Humphrey 33
(27% were undecided)

South

Wallace vote goes to
Nixon 83%
Humphrey 17
(24% were undecided)

Although Humphrey loses at this point in time in this test race, past experience shows that candidates often have great recuperative powers, especially candidates who have the backing of a major party.

Humphrey is one of the leading Democratic contenders for the party's 1973 nomination. A mid-February survey showed Humphrey, Sen. Edmund Muskie and Sen. Edward Kennedy in a three-way battle for top Democratic popularity honors.

A look back to early 1962, after President Kennedy's first year in office, will also provide encouragement to Humphrey. Nixon, who then was in the position that Humphrey is now, trailed the incumbent Kennedy by a 52-35 per cent count, similar to the present Nixon-Humphrey results.

Gov. Sargent—Is Mass. Rosy?

By BRUCE BIOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent

For Republican Gov. Francis Sargent of Massachusetts, seeking his first term in his own right, things today look almost too good. That is what worries him.

Faction-ridden though they are, and that is the usual state of the Democrats in this strange political arena, the opposition forces can make considerable trouble for Sargent between now and campaign time.

Right now polls show Sargent, who took over when former Gov. John Volpe became President Nixon's secretary of transportation, leading all prospective Democratic rivals by comfortable margins.

His indicated strongest possible opponent is Mayor Kevin White of Boston, but some Democratic sources say he is seen too little, has too frail a statewide organization and is highly vulnerable because he has substantially raised Boston's taxes. Clearly, he has lost ground.

State Senate President Maurice Donahue is able and widely respected but is generally thought to lack winning charisma. Perennial candidate Francis Bellotti is viewed as a tired face whose only hope lies in having the other Democrats kill each other off.

In some ways the most interesting Democratic governorship entry is Kenneth P. O'Donnell, former aide to the late John F. Kennedy. In 1966 he got 46 per cent of the vote in a losing primary fight. Today he insists he is far better known, has the best-working state organization and can build successfully on the 270,000 votes he ran up the last time.

Yet some knowledgeable state Democrats, while praising O'Donnell's sharp political skills, still argue he comes across poorly on television, has a low recognition factor, and is just not the "out-front" type. He intends, incidentally, to by-pass his party's June advisory convention and to focus on the late summer primary.

Democratic experts are not least among those here who say their party's chaos and other factors give Republican Sargent a commanding edge. One actually used the label "homespun" to describe the popular appeal of this handsome Yankee Brahmin who was elected lieutenant-governor in 1966.

I accepted that judgment after watching him bounding around to mix easily with crowds in two St. Patrick's Day parades. Attitude polls rate him high on warmth and sincerity.

But the heavy Democratic majorities in the Massachusetts Legislature can hurt Sargent by dumping a host of troublesome bills on his desk in the months ahead. Probably the most difficult is a pending measure that might give a potential military draftee an option not to serve in Vietnam so long as Congress does not declare war there.

Though embarrassed, Sargent might feel compelled to sign such a bill. He is strongly antiwar and took part in last November's big Vietnam moratorium.

Moreover, this crunch dramatizes the fact that Massachusetts is poor country for President Nixon and Sargent will definitely but delicately have to separate himself from presidential policies too heavily weighted to the conservative and "southern strategy" side. Nixon has been so informed.

Mr. Middle Class Harassed From Dawn to Dusk and Beyond

NEW YORK — (NEA) — According to federal economists, the cost of living rises about five per cent a year. According to practically everyone else, this is nonsense — it must rise at a far greater rate.

For example:

The man you are about to meet lives in the state of New Jersey and works in New York City. But he might live and work almost anywhere today. He's Mr. Middle Cla$$. He has a wife, two children, at least one mortgage and an automobile. He earns $10,000 salary and, well...

It's morning. He wakes for work.

He brushes his teeth with toothpaste that is eight cents a tube more than it was last year. He uses a soap that once sold for a dime, now is three bars for 45 cents. Even the stickum for his hair is about a half-cent more a dab.

He puts on a suit just back from cleaning: the bill: $1.75, up 50 cents in four years. He slips into a pair of shoes that cost 12 per cent more than in 1966. And he knots a tie that has grown by three inches in width and $1.50 in cost.

He sits down at the breakfast table and worries over eggs that have risen from 45 cents to 85 cents a dozen in 36 months. They don't seem as tasty any more. Neither does the milk which costs five cents more a quart, or the butter, which has jumped from 57 cents a pound to 82 cents, or the bread, which has had a price increase of 20 per cent.

Bicarbonate? Even it costs more.

After eating, Mr. Middle Class gets into his car to drive to the bus station. The auto is old and paid for, but the inflated cost of operation remains. Gas is up two cents a gallon in a year, repair service is 25 per cent higher than 1965, and insurance premiums have leaped one-third in the past couple of months.

The parking lot near the bus station cost 50 cents all day a year ago. Now it's 75 cents — and a two-bit tip for the attendant.

The bus fare into New York is also up. Again. The third rise in five years. It averages out now at about five cents for each passenger for each mile.

Then there is the subway. It carries Mr. Middle across Manhattan to his office. Seems like only yesterday it was a dime. Then 20 cents. Now it's 30 cents and very nervous, but the rider is entitled to a larger token.

At the office, time passes relatively uninflated for Mr. Middle. Except, that is, if he stops for a sandwich at a luncheonette (up 30 cents in two years), has his watch repaired (up 15 per cent this year), gets a haircut (from $1.75 to $2.25 since 1967), or sets out to purchase one of those badly needed but old-reliable $5 dress shirts (they now cost $7.50).

Then, just before quitting time, bi-monthly pay checks are passed out. And, soon after, Mr. Middle is almost passed out. He was to get a small raise this week — but this is also the week deductions are made for medical health insurance — up more than 25 per cent — and the check is slimmer than ever.

So, weary now as well as worried, Mr. Middle goes home. Walking past store windows, he sees that furniture has risen 10 per cent in two years, household utilities about the same. And family clothing? Any display item that cost $10 two years ago would now likely cost at least another $2.50.

Aspirin? No good. It's up a few pennies, too.

Back, then, to his home, where Mr. Middle sits again to eat — if his appetite allows. Since 1968, meat, poultry and fish have inflated 14 per cent, dairy products are up 7 per cent, fruits and vegetables climbed nearly 8 per cent, and bakery products have risen more than five cents on the dollar.

During dinner, the son complains of a tooth cavity; prospect: a dental bill that is up at least 12 per cent in 24 months. After dinner, the daughter says she would like to go on a weekend skiing trip; egad, stuck again: transportation - recreation expenses have grown 10 per cent in two years.

Thus it goes through the evening. Mail contains a notice of annual property tax hikes. Television newscasts tell of a new 2 per cent sales tax. Newspapers report the settlement of the GE strike will be paid for by appreciable price increases in everything from stoves to light bulbs.

And, finally, mercifully, late night falls.

Mr. Middle retires.

Arkansas River Aims for Big Business Boom

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — (NEA) — The Army Corps of Engineers, knocked lately for not doing enough to keep the country's water clean, has turned a whippersnapper stream into a waterway that can make Old Man River look like an Establishment splashway on the wrong side of the Generation Gap.

The Arkansas River is where all the action is these days. A lot of people, backed by $1.2 billion, are doing their best to make the hitherto unnaviagable stream (at least for larger vessels) into a 450-mile soggy stairway.

It climbs from the junction of the White and Mississippi Rivers (a mere 100 feet above sea level) to Catoosa, Okla. (not far from Tulsa), where the altitude is a heady 520 feet above sea level.

The river was officially opened to commercial traffic as far as Fort Smith last December. By the end of this year, or maybe early in '71, it will make a lot of people richer and happier all over Arkansas and Oklahoma.

Both states will then have commercial links, via the Mississippi to the open sea with major ports of the world.

Over the vast inland waterway system, major U.S. ports will also be accessible: Pittsburgh, Pa., and Charleston, W. Va., to the east; Chicago, St. Paul, Minn., and Sioux City, Iowa, in the Midwest; and Brownsville, Tex., and Panama City, Fla., on the Gulf Coast.

Under contracts awarded by the Corps of Engineers, firms from a number of large states and companies inside Arkansas and Oklahoma have completed, are building or will construct 17 locks and dams (12 in Arkansas and five in Oklahoma).

They will dredge out channels from 150 to 300 feet wide, to a minimum depth of nine feet.

This will enable the Arkansas to accommodate the largest tows now used. A tow may have as many as 30 barges lashed to a powerful towboat.

These tows are huge — one barge may be 250 feet long and 50 feet wide, with a capacity of 3,000 tons.

Corps of Engineers officials estimate that the river will be able to handle 13.2 million tons of cargo annually. From Jan. 1 to Aug. 31, 1969, the stretch from the Mississippi to Little Rock, then the only section completely navigable for large tows, carried 1.26 million tons, some 260,000 tons over their original estimate for that section for the entire first year of operation.

These figures bring broad grins to the faces of Little Rock's civic and business leaders. "It's extremely possible that we'll become the largest inland port in the west south central United States (Arkansas, Oklahoma, Texas and Louisiana), says Harry K. McLemore, director of industrial development for the Little Rock Chamber of Commerce.

Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller says the project "will have a major impact on the state. It shouldn't be too long before the Arkansas is taking its place along with the Mississippi and the Ohio in terms of economic growth."

This impact already is being felt, not only in Little Rock, but all along the Arkansas River Valley. Millions of dollars in workers' wages are being spent in Arkansas and Oklahoma.

Private industry plans to sink more than $300 million into new plants and expansion of existing facilities in the two states. The present and future port cities of Pine Bluff, Little Rock, Russell-Dardanelle, Clarksville, Van Buren and Fort Smith (all in Arkansas) and Muskogee and Tulsa-Catoosa in Oklahoma are investing more than $30 million to develop port facilities and industrial parks.

Industry is lured to any navigable waterway primarily by the guarantee of low shipping costs. According to recent figures compiled by the Operators, Inc., a shipper's dollar will move a ton of freight 333.3 miles by barge; 66.66 miles by rail; 15.4 miles by truck, or five miles by air.

And, while water transportation is certainly the slowest of any other method it cannot be matched for efficiency in moving vast tonnages or extremely bulky items.

William L. Horstman, manager of marketing and development for the Pittsburgh-based Dravo Corp.'s Eastern Construction Divison, which designed and built David D. Terry lock and dam near Little Rock, says:

"Firms that manufacture bulk materials or use them in the production of other products are those that benefit most from development of a river navigation system and are quick to locate nearby."

In the case of the Arkansas, he points out, industries that will benefit most include:

Aluminum — "Arkansas is rich in bauxite, the basic ingredient for making aluminum. Opening the river will permit bulk shipments of domestic bauxite and higher-grade Jamaica bauxite to be delivered to aluminum plants in the state at much lower cost than previously." (According to Harry McLemore, Jamaica bauxite, which is mixed with the domestic brand, until recently had to be brought by ship to mobile, Ala., then transported by railroad hopper cars to area aluminum plants.)

Fertilizers — "We've seen a good bit of fertilizer plant construction in Arkansas since the river project was initiated.

Chemicals — "The river will provide a direct connection between upstream plants and the chemical-producing areas of the Gulf Coast."

Still another industry expected to benefit from the river is wood and wood products. The largest payroll industry in Arkansas, it will grow even bigger as opening of the stream permits expanison of existing markets and creation of new ones.

And don't forget the state's chicken, rice and soybean raisers says Gov. Rockefeller, himself a farmer with a 34,000 acre spread 40 miles northwest of Little Rock on which he raises cattle and soybeans. Rockefeller notes:

"Arkansas is exporting $100 million worth of rice and soybeans annually. This represents a tremendous volume and the cost of production is not insignificant. The River will increase margins of profit through lower shipping costs."

Willful Abortion

Editor, The Freeman

We Americans have "progressed" into a society which gushes concern and sympathy for the rights of even the most heinous murderer, but which eagerly supports arguments for murdering the most innocent of its members.

No matter how foggy some may want to make the issue, willful abortion is the willful taking of an innocent human life. And far from being a solution to a problem, it adds but another tragedy to a world already overflowing with tragedy.

Some "enlightened" men — "doctors" or "ministers" — use the "expanding world population" argument to justify murdering an unborn baby. I have yet to hear one of these "men" offer their own life for the "cause."

Atheistic arguments which define a particular conception as merely an unwanted "accident" ignore the normal results of some rather widely understood deliberate human actions.

The victim of a rape has no guilt — until she allows her baby to be murdered.

Those who say that abortion is merely a private matter between two individuals forget that murder usually is "private."

And who is the cause of a mother's illness — mental or otherwise? Is it really her unborn baby boy or girl; or is it the father or the doctor — or even the mother herself? Are we not, by abortion, really murdering the only person who can not speak for himself?

A "doctor's" use of his medical instruments to still a squirming twenty week old fetus is as degrading as was the use of Herod's spears on the helpless of that time.

Without a chance to speak for itself, without a trial, the frail existence of a new human life becomes its death sentence. The spirit of progressive barbarism now manifesting itself on our streets and in our schools urges us to further legalize the murder of an innocent human being.

True reverence for life begins where life itself truely begins, where do you stand?

Report Leftist Congo Republic Overthrown by Military Leaders

KINSHASA, Congo (UPI)—A group of military men believed headed by the commander of the army announced today it has overthrown the leftist government of President Marien Ngouabi in the Congo Republic.

The announcement over the neighboring nation's official Brazzaville Radio said the coup succeeded Sunday night—the third since the former French Congo declared its independence from France Aug. 15, 1960.

Ngouabi became president Dec. 31, 1968, and announced a new constitution one year later which put his nation solidly in the Communist camp.

The coup announcement said Ngouabi was arrested but "his life (was) saved because the soldiers of the people are not assassins."

Broadcasts in Paris named the new leader in the republic, across the Congo River from Kinshasa, as Maj. Joachim Yhombi, chief of the national peoples army.

The announcement said the new government has annulled the Dec. 31 constitution which changed the name of the country to "Popular Republic of the Congo." The government had promised to follow the path of Marxist Communism.

Brazzaville Radio appealed to governments in neighboring countries including Gabon, Chad, the Central African Republic and, in particular, the former Belgian Congo with its capital in Kinshasa for "immediate military assistance."

The communiques on the Brazzaville Radio said members of the provisional government as well as the "military committee of liberation" that staged the coup would be made public "within the next few hours."

PIPE BOMB DAMAGE — Standing amid glass from shattered windows, a policeman takes notes outside a Bronx stockbroker's office damaged by the explosion of a pipe bomb early Sunday. There were no injuries in the blast, which also shattered windows of nearby buildings. Police investigators later found an unexploded firebomb on a window ledge of a bank in the same neighborhood. Arthur Goldberg's View— Carswell 'Not Fit' to Serve

WASHINGTON (AP) — A former Supreme Court justice has declared Judge G. Harrold Carswell "is not fit" to serve on the high court.

Arthur J. Goldberg, who seeks the Democratic nomination for governor of New York, broke a long silence on the Carswell nomination when asked if he considered President Nixon's nominee qualified.

The former Supreme Court justice made the statement Sunday on NBC's "Meet the Press."

Sen. Fred Harris, D-Okla., today was expected to call for the return of Carswell's nomination to the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Harris, who first made the suggestion Sunday on the Metromedia Radio News program "Profile," planned to repeat the plea in a speech on the Senate floor. Harris said the committee should have the opportunity to question a former associate of Carswell in the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals who declined to support the nominee.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, announced today he will vote against confirmation of Carswell. That brought to 25 the number of announced Carswell opponents. Forty senators have announced support for the nomination.

Church said Carswell's record as a federal judge "has been utterly pedestrian in character.

"Above all, the court calls for jurists whose comprehension of the Constitution is as profound as their duty to uphold it is imperative." Church said in a speech prepared for the Senate. "As measured against these criteria, George Harrold Carswell is indubitably deficient."

Church said the Senate should apply a special standard in judging a nominee for the Supreme Court, "one of singular excellence." He said Carswell does not meet that test.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed that a half-dozen of Carswell's firmest backers may have to interrupt a mission to Monte Carlo for the Senate vote on confirmation.

Two senators counted as opposed to confirmation also are members of a delegation the Senate is sending to Monaco for a meeting of world parliamentarians.

The Monte Carlo meeting dates conflict with the timetable Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield hopes to set for a final vote on Carswell's controversial promotion to the Supreme Court.

The Inter-Parliamentary Union conference is scheduled March 30 to April 4, which means eight senators, including Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, are likely to be away when the Senate returns from its abbreviated Easter recess.

Mansfield wants a Carswell vote within two days after the recess—on April 1 or April 2.

While a later vote would be a more likely settlement, Mansfield said the Monte Carlo delegation could easily be summoned back for a roll call.

Motorist Fined As Unlicensed After Mishap

SHOKAN

John Joseph Harkness, 19, of 120 Prospect Street was arrested Sunday afternoon by the Ulster County Sheriff's Department and charged with being an unlicensed operator.

Harkness was involved in an accident about 4 p. m. on County Road 22, about a half mile from the intersection of Rt. 28.

According to a report of Deputy Donald Van Aken, Harkness was traveling west on County Road 22 when an unknown vehicle traveling east forced his car off the road and continued on.

Harkness was arraigned before Town of Olive Justice Vincent Barringer and ordered to pay a $50 fine or spend 15 days in jail. Harkness paid the fine.

Car Fire

Fire reportedly caused by a blowback in the carburetor of a sedan owned by Ella Robbins of 2 Jansen Road, New Paltz, damaged the insulation on the ignition system Saturday afternoon in Kingston. Engine 1 in charge of Deputy Chief Robert Maines was dispatched and quelled the blaze with pressurized water, authorities said.

2 Motorists Charged After Separate Mishaps

TOWN OF ULSTER

Two motorists were arrested by Kingston State Police Sunday, on charges of drunken driving after their cars were involved in separate accidents.

Eugene Longstrand, 37, of 31 Lamb Avenue, Saugerties, was booked by Trooper Robert Malloy after his southbound car went out of control and veered off Route 9W near Route 209 in this township.

Longstrand was arraigned before Town Justice Sherwood E Davis after he submitted to a breathalyzer test. Hearing was adjourned. The mishap occurred at 5:30 p.m. Sunday, authorities noted.

In another mishap, Arthur Ortlieb, 31, of R.D. 2, Kingston, was cited by Troopers R. M. Houst and D. J. Pitcher on a charge of driving while intoxicated. Authorities reported the vehicle was eastbound on Route 28 in the Town of Woodstock when it went off the left shoulder near Route 28A at 2:15 a.m. yesterday.

Ortlieb took a blood test before arraignment before Town Justice James Myers, who adjourned hearing until March 25 and released the motorist in his own custody.

Kingston troopers also investigated a mishap that occurred at 9 p.m. Sunday on Route 28 in the Town of Olive. Glenna McDonald, 19, of Willow, told Trooper Malloy she was driving along the highway when an unidentified speeding vehicle forced her car into guard posts. She was ejected.

The driver was taken to Kingston Hospital by Doctors Ambulance and treated for lacerations and bruises of the face.

Police Board Meets April 16

KINGSTON

Members of the Kingston Board of Police Commissioners at the monthly meeting scheduled for April 16, probably will make permanent appointments of two lieutenants.

An eligibility list for lieutenant has been received from the State Civil Service Commission by the Municipal Civil Service Commission.

Topping the list is Detective Lieut. Charles McCullough, who has been serving as an acting lieutenant under a provisional appointment since Sept. 1, 1969. He succeeded Lemuel Howard, who retired.

Lieutenant Gurnsey Burger, who has been serving the department as acting lieutenant, was second on the list. In all probability, McCullough and Burger will be appointed to permanent posts.

Others on the list were Sergeants Harry Short and Bernard Fowler.

Local Patients Are Transferred

KINGSTON

Richard Johnston of 178 South Pajcack Place, Spring Valley, who was injured in a recent skiing accident at a Catskill resort, was transferred by Fatum's Ambulance from Kingston Hospital to the Suffern Hospital.

The same ambulance service transferred Stanley Quick from Benedictine Hospital recently to Albany Medical Center. He sustained injuries of the right hand and chest when dynamite caps exploded near his home in Rosendale, it was reported.

DIED

Memoriam

In loving memory of my mother, Ophelia Smith, who passed away three years ago today, March 23, 1967.

They say time heals all sorrows, it helps us to forget;
But time so far has only proven,
how much we miss her yet;
God gave us strength to fight it,
and courage to bear the blow,
But what it means to lose you,
no one will ever know.
YOUR LOVING DAUGHTER,

GRANDCHILDREN

Memoriam

In sad and loving memory of my darling daughter, Marlene Rose Tiano on her 33rd birthday and my very dear friend, Mrs. Joan Brown who passed away four years ago March 26, 1966.

Loved, remembered, longed for always.
Bringing many a silent tear.
Loving mother,
THERESA TIANO

Memoriam

In loving memory of my wife, and our mother, Ophelia Smith, who departed from us, three years ago today, March 23, 1967.

Although from life my mother's gone,
My love and guidance that she gave,
Is a precious memory I'll always save,
And though the Lord has seen it best,
To put her suffering to a rest,
So many memories time can't erase,
There is no one can take her place,
The things she taught I won't forget,
And in my heart she liveth yet.

Third Annual Camp-O-Rama Set

CHECKING SPACES – Committee members designating exhibitor spaces for the Camp-O-Rama include (L) Linda Decker, secretary; Pat Weiss, Gerry Klemm; Bruce Ashton, chairman, and Gail Ashton.

NEW PLATZ — The Ulster County Chapters of National Campers and Hikers Association are sponsoring the third annual CAMP-O-RAMA and Outdoor Recreational Living Show at the Ulster County Fair Grounds in New Paltz April 25 and 26.

Bruce Ashton of New Paltz, chairman for the event, has announced that expectations for a large display of equipment are now realized. The event will be the largest outdoor recreational type show yet to be held in the Mid-Hudson Valley area to date.

There will be more than $200,000 in camping equipment on display at the fair grounds. Commercial recreational equipment dealers will be displaying their wares, and more than 100 camping families will be set up to answer all questions concerning outdoor family living. Recreational vehicle dealers will be on hand to answer all questions from the public as to the proper equipment that is available for use as tow vehicles for the tent-type, folding units and the larger fully self contained house type trailers that are seen traveling our highways today.

Camping families will be in residence during the weekend demonstrating the advantages of "camping" today in comparison with 40 years ago. No matter what the type one would be interested in seeing, be it a very modest umbrella tent, or the plush motor home, it will be shown. A new innovation this year will be demonstrations of the different aspects of outdoor family living that will be given by the sponsoring Chapters of NCHA. These exhibits will include outdoor camp cooking on open fires, and over propane and gasoline stoves, a graphic example of the difference between living in a home and the new style of "camping," a display of clothes one would need for outdoor living will also be shown. Different types of camping will be displayed, covering back-pack type to the fully self contained "trailerist" luxury and the equipment needed for each. A well-planned campsite be a feature. Programs for group camping will be discussed and different games that all can participate in will be demonstrated.

The Chapters of NCHA sponsoring the CAMP-O-ROMA are the Camptown Trotters of Woodstock, the Camp-liters of New Paltz, the Huguenot Hobos of Clintondale, the Onteora Travelers of Kingston, the Rondout Valley Rovers of High Falls, the Shongum Shockers of Ellenville, the Appleworms of Highland and the Sawyerkill Knight-owls of Kingston. Field Directors for NCHA in Ulster County are Wess and Fran Cross from High Falls, Bruce and Gail Ashton from New Paltz, Bob and Pat Weiss from Highland, George and Loretta Schmitt from Woodstock and Bob and Betty Dawson from Ellenville. Harold and Gloria Steffenhagen from White Plains are the Hudson Valley District Directors.

NCHA is a non-profit, educational, fastest growing organization of camping families in the United States and Canada who are devoted to the conservation of natural resources, and to educate the public to beware of the inherited responsibility. The Ulster County Camp-o-rama exhibit area will be open to the public, free of charge between the hours of 10 a.m. and 5 p.m. on Saturday, April 25, and 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. Sunday, April 26.

Students at Bard Seek 'Outward Bound' Class

By TIM SCHUSTER

ANNANDALE ON HUDSON — A group of Bard College students is advocating the initiation of Outward Bound as a mandatory freshman orientation course.

An editorial in the independent student publication "Observer" had suggested that this method of orientation would provide "a legitimate and lasting sense of community membership, concern, and adventure."

It suggests that enough other schools have pioneered adapting Outward Bound to their programs, that is "not an impossible task in terms of organization and implementation."

Other schools using a modified program for students and teachers include Colorado State, Horace Mann School in the Bronx, Dartmouth, and Athenian School in Danville, Cal. Prescott College in Arizona has also recently adopted the program.

Outward Bound is a program which seeks to expose young men and women to severe physical challenge, and teach them that interdependence can solve problems that the individual cannot.

Many of the skills they learn, fire fighting, first aid, search and rescue, are directed toward aiding others, arousing an awareness of the concept of service.

The program originated in Wales, developed by Dr. Kurt Hahn, in Wales. Hahn took boys from the city streets, not particulary robust nor committed, and put them through a rigorous and specific seaman's training program.

He found that the answer to grumbling lay in motivation. Boys who had hung back were virtually transformed when the Coast Guard sought their help in real rescue work.

The first Outward Bound school in this country was in the mountians of Colorado. There are now 18 schools throughout the world. About 3,000 United States youngsters have now attended Outward Bound courses, and about 1,500 more will take them this summer.

It has caught on partly because young people today have few opportunities to assume real responsibility or accomplish concrete tasks of genuine importance. School has taken over his life, with the push for material success, whereas a century age reality was inescapable.

Hahn has said, "There are three ways of trying to win the young. There is persuasion, there is attraction. You can preach at them; that is the hook without the worm. You can say 'You must volunteer'; that is of the devil. And you can tell them You are needed; that appeal hardly ever fails.'

An important feature of Outward Bound has each student exposed to three days of solitary living in an uninhabited place. Equipment consist of a line and hook, a sleeping bag, eight matches, a plastic sheet, first aid kit, two quarts of water, and a knife. The sole provides each student with an unparalleled opportunity for self-appraisal.

One student's comments after taking the three-week course was, "'Only under the pressure of stress does a person get the chance to know himself. Outward Bound is not easy; it is not meant to be. It is something very good."

The Bard group finds this building to building and listening to windy administrators."

The airman, who was trained to operate and repair emergency radio equipment, is being assigned to Zaragoza AB, Spain, for duty with the Air Force Communications Service which provides global communications and air traffic control for the USAF.

Airman Dapp, a 1968 graduate of Highland Junior-Senior High School, attended New Paltz State University.

Holes Up, Literally

MOSCOW (UPI)—Genrykas Kayota, 45, answered his draft call 26 years late. Kayota, a Lithuanian, told police he literally holed up in a root cellar in his home when he received his conscription orders in 1944.

"I decided to come out in the middle of the 1950s but my mother made me change my mind," he said when he finally emerged recently. The Soviets granted amnesty to World War II draft dodgers some years ago, but Kayota, a local newspaper said, still will have to rehabilitate himself with society.

24 Graduated At Babysitting Course Finale

WOODSTOCK

Twenty-four students received certificates and pins for successful completion of the babysitting safety course sponsored by Woodstock Jayncees and Town of Ulster Kiwanis.

The presentations were made at the final class of the current session. Top grades went to Beth Rifenburg and Sherry Irving.

The six-week course covered such subjects as understanding the child, bathing and feeding, how to protect children from accidents, how to recognize hazards, first aid, babysitting etiquette and protection of the babysitter.

Mrs. Hazel Castle, RN of Lake Katrine instructed the classes.

Guest speakers during the course included Sgt. Ray Davis of the County Sheriff's Department, Capt. Stewart DeWitt and Chief Duncan Wilson of Woodstock Fire Company.

This is the first time teenage boys participated in class. There were five in this class. A graduation party followed the ceremonies.

Bomb Calls To KHS, Saugerties HS

KINGSTON

Police investigated two bomb threats at area high schools, Kingston High and Saugerties High, this morning.

Kingston High School was evacuated shortly after 10 a. m. when a bomb threat was telephoned. City police and firemen checked out the building and returned students within a half hour.

Saugerties High also received a bomb threat which was quickly checked out this morning.

Police are continuing their investigation.

Robbery Suspect On Danger List; Shot by Trooper

FISHKILL, N.Y. (AP)—Rodney Nemeth, 21, of Fishkill, who was on the "danger list" at Vassar Brothers Hospital in Poughkeepsie early today, will face armed robbery charges if he recovers sufficiently to be charged police said.

State Police said a man fleeing from a $90 armed robbery of a grocery store was shot and critically wounded by a trooper after the man fired at the officer during a foot chase.

The shooting occurred minutes after a gunman held up Claude Sears, 65, owner of the grocery store in Fishkill Plains. Sears called police who said Nemeth was seen fleeing on foot.

State Police chased the man into woods near the store. The shooting occurred as the man attempted to cross a shallow pond. Nemeth suffered a stomach wound.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks opened mixed in moderate trading today on the New York Stock Exchange.

The postal strike added another depressing element to an already weak market last week and one analyst wondered out loud "how we're going to do business." Volume dropped below 8 million shares Friday. Meanwhile, investors apparently were still awaiting some dramatic evidence that prime interest rate is coming down or that the Federal Reserve Board has eased monetary restraints.

Shortly after the opening the UPI marketwide indicator was up 0.06 per cent. Declines led advances, 144 to 112. The Dow Jones average of 30 blue chip industrials was off more than a point.

American Telephone lost ¼ to 51⅝. Sears ⅛ to 66¾ and International Nickel ¼ to 44¾. Boise Cascade added ⅛ to 61⅛.

In the oils Gulf was steady at 26. Texaco lost ⅜ to 27⅛. Jersey Standard ¼ to 55 and Occidental ⅜ to 22. Mobil and California Standard each gave up ¼ to 40½ and 44, respectively.

Ford at 44⅜ and American Motors at 10 each gained ⅛. Chrysler lost ⅜ to 25⅝.

In the steels U.S. Steel was unchanged at 36½. Inland rose ⅛ to 27½. Bethlehem lost ¼ to 27⅛.

Society of Friends Plan Silent Protest

NEW PALTZ

Society of Friends in New Paltz will "gather in silence not in denunciation of recruiters" scheduled to appear on State University at New Paltz Campus Tuesday. Friends will gather at 11 a.m. in the main quadrangle.

At a special meeting of the Religious Society of Friends of New Paltz, a statement was issued with regard to the coming of recruiters in which they state "We feel pain and shame about the Vietnam and Laos wars. We wish to express our belief that man should be of service to his country and to all humanity.

"We do not think destruction is service. We do think love and the bringing of joy into life is the basis for service.

"We feel that we cannot express concern unless it is a religious expression. Our objections are purely religious.

"We have determined then to gather in silence; not in denunciation of the recruiters, but in affirmation of the light of God within."

New Soviet Novel Becomes Best Seller

MOSCOW (UPI)—A new Soviet novel that describes Pablo Picasso as a pornographer and Leon Trotsky as a Zionist agent has become a best-selling sensation overnight in Moscow.

Ivan Shevtsov's "In the Name of Father and Son," a novel of life in a Moscow metallurgical plant, came out a few days ago and is already a near sellout. It is rife with anti-Zionism.

One of the characters in the plotless novel, a Jew named Aaron Herzovich, says of Trotsky, the first Soviet foreign minister:

"Like the Fascists, the Zionists fiercely hate Marxism-Leninism, especially internationalism. . .

"Sometimes the Zionist agents manage to infiltrate the leadership of the Communist party, as did Judas-Trotsky or Bronstein (Trotsky's original Jewish name), one of the typical agents of Zionism, international, provocateur No. 1." A Moscow exhibition by Picasso, the French painter, was described as "pornographic."

Shevtsov, up to now an obscure writer, lashed out at poets Yevgeny Yevtushenko and his former wife, Bella Akhamadullina; at realist painter Ilya Glazunov, sculptor Ernest Niezvestny and several abstract painters.

The author reversed the official Soviet view that Zionists are "stooges of American imperialism" and said "On the contrary, American imperialism constitutes the military and economic base of Zionism and serves the goals of Zionism."

Indirectly praising the purges under the late dictator Josef V. Stalin, he said:

"Trotsky planted his men in the army. Had Stalin not unmasked him in time, what would have happened? A nightmare worse than Hitlerism. . .Trotsky was a Zionist and his party simply a branch of Zionism."

Trotsky was deported in 1929 and assissinated in Mexico city in 1940.

Missing Boy's Body Is Found Near Catskill

STOCKPORT, N.Y. (AP) — The body of 4-year-old Joseph Emerson was found Sunday in the Hudson River eight miles south of the place he was last seen playing four months ago.

The body was in 1½ feet of water 1,500 feet downstream from the Rip Van Winkle Bridge near Catskill.

The boy was seen playing near Stockport Creek November 20th. The creek empties into the Hudson.

Rev. Taylor Pursues Housing in Southern Ulster on Two Fronts

By SHANE CROSBY

MARLBORO

The Rev. Harley Taylor, planner of two low income housing developments in the Southern Ulster area, will appear before a public hearing here March 30 to discuss one plan while his engineers continue their efforts to gain approval in Shawangunk for his second venture.

In what has taken more than two years, the Rev. Mr. Taylor's plans for a Hill Top Estates in Marlboro and for People's City in the community near Wallkill in the town of Shawangunk, have reached the public hearing stage, but still seem far from acceptance.

Designed for low income familes, the homes in the two plans have been faced with problem after problem as they seek acceptance by town boards and town planning boards.

"Where do the delays end?" the Rev. Mr. Taylor recently asked at a recent meeting with Shawangunk officials who have outlined 15 points that they say must be cleared up before approval can be given.

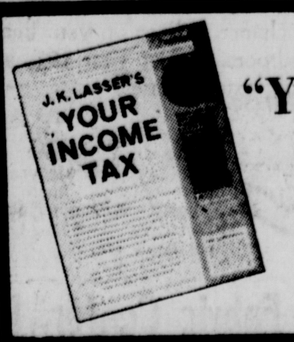

The town's Planning Board, working on the 15-point objection to People's City one by one, told the Rev. Mr. Taylor at the last session held earlier this week that all of the 62 homes must be on one acre lots, to comply with a planned Zoning Ordinance regulation being sought by the board.

It was noted by the town and the Rev. Mr. Taylor that the requirement is not on the "books" until the actual passage of the Zoning Law, but Planning Board Chairman Ralph Branch said he is being asked to enforce it and added that he has the authority.

In Marlboro, the planned public hearing scheduled for March 30 at 8 p.m. in the town hall is being called to consider a request to extend the Marlboro Water District to his proposed Hill Top Estates and the 11 homes of the development. Approval for the 11-home park was recently granted by the Marlboro Planning Board, and the end-of-March hearing is considered a major step closer to the actual development approval construction.

Exhibition Ends Girl Scout Week

SAUGERTIES

The annual celebration of Girl Scout Week in Saugerties concluded on March 14 with the presentation of Scouts-in-Action at the Saugerties Junior-Senior High School.

Twenty-nine of the 31 troops participated in the event which grows larger every year. Approximately 350 girls and their leaders presented a variety of skills to the public.

Brownie troops taking part were 202, 196, 203, 53, 45, 70, 194, 195, 37, 198, 109, 185, 154, and 9. Several of these troops were doing service projects of making tray favors for hospitals to be used on the up-coming holidays. Others were learning crafts using clay, popsicle sticks, and needlecraft, another troop was making sit-upons to be used at outdoor activities, while another had several performances of a puppet show.

Junior troops, the 4th, 5th, and 6th graders, taking part were 192, 161, 23, 186, 169, 103, 133, 73, 5, 170, and 98.

These girls were demonstrating work done in completing proficiency badges. Badges represented were needlecraft, dabbler — a variety of crafts, drawing, prints, sewing, world neighbor, world games, and my community. It is evident from the titles that scouting gives girls a variety of skills and interests from which to choose.

The Cadette troops of junior high girls were Troops 117, 66, and 104. They also demonstrated badges by cooking, practicing first aid and doing textile arty.

Senior girls from Troop 152 were present to give help wherever needed. They also had a booth to collect the donations of all troops to the Juliette Low World Friendship Fund for the use of Girls Scouts and Guides throughout the world.

The success of this annual event is due to the chairmanship of Mrs. William Christinana and the cooperation of all Girl Scouts and leaders in the neighborhood.

Honor Past Noble Grands

SAUGERTIES

A St. Patrick's Day theme prevailed at the meeting of Queen Ulster Rebekah Lodge No. 34 last week in Odd Fellows Temple with Noble Grand Alice Legg presiding. The past noble grands of the lodge were the honored guests and upon entering the room each one was presented with a shamrock past noble grand decoration.

All past noble grands were requested to assemble at the altar and Noble Grand Legg read an appropriate article and presented each one with a gift.

Josie Dederick, Sarah Mack and Bernard Dreffin took part in a skit to observe the birth of Schuyler Colfax, founder of the Rebekah Degree.

A card party will be held Tuesday, April 21 at 8:30 p. m. to which the public is invited. All who expect to attend the Rebekah Odd Fellows Night Saturday April 25 at 6:30 p. m. are requested to notify Florence Gippert not later than April 21. Noble Grand announced the next meeting April 7 would be a backwards meeting and appointed the following committees: Visiting, Hazel Herrick, Anna Minkler, vice grand and noble grand. Refreshments: Judith Martin and Sarah Mack.

Couple Faces Conduct Charge

ELLENVILLE

A Wurtsboro couple faces charges of disorderly conduct as the result of a disturbance near the Circus Bar on Center Street in this community at 11:30 p.m. Sunday, village police reported.

Officers Anthony Yerks and Robert Baker booked Harold Damms, 39, and his wife, Lenora, 38. They were arraigned before Village Justice Ronald Elias at midnight. Damms was held in $250 bail for hearing Tuesday night. The woman was released in her own custody.

Attorney Ben Lonstein was assigned as counsel for Damms. Judge Elias appointed Attorney Lonstein to represent Mrs. Damms.

Centerville Club Displays Projects

SAUGERTIES

Projects of various groups and individuals were displayed at a recent covered dish luncheon of Centerville Home Makers Club held at Saugerties Savings Bank Building. The committee in charge of tables and desserts were Charlotte Sperl, Louise Morse and Veronica Jack.

Two new members joined the club. They were Mildred Sperl and Delores Hauser.

The Tuesday knitting group have made colorful lint brushes for the Finger Home. Margaret McCall made corsages and brought in many varieties of Easter goodies to put in the centerpieces for table decorations. Madeline O'Niell and Francis Jackson displayed Tote Bags and will teach a class in same very soon.

At the next meeting in April a social will be held after the meeting. Ladies wishing to play cards are to bring their own.

Jane Simon and Lorraine Jorgensen have asked the members to please try to donate some of their time, at their own convenience, to the Emma Wygant School and to the Infirmary on Flatbush Avenue and Golden Hill.

Marge Kohan is the new sunshine chairlady. Next refreshment committee will be Claire Ward, Pauline Wolfe and Ethel Myer.

Masonic Rites

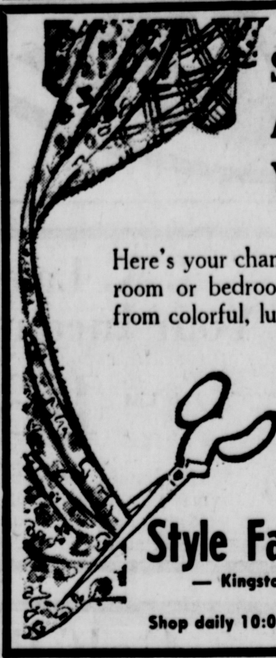

Ulster Lodge 193 F&AM will confer the Third Degree at its Wednesday meeting 8 p.m. at Masonic Lodge. Junior Warden William Nieffer will preside in the East.

Also participating will be Henry S. Hartley, C. Freeman Lasher and W. David Halpert.

All members and area Masons are invited to attend.

Democratic Meeting

Saugerties Democratic Club will conduct its regular meeting Tuesday 8 p.m. at Harps Inn, Route 9W, Barclay Heights. All members have been requested to attend.

"I WAS A SLAVE IN RUSSIA"

BEHIND BARBED WIRE in a Soviet slave labor camp in the Arctic wastes of Siberia for 9½ long years, Detroit-born John Noble learned at first hand the unspeakable fate that awaits men and nations who fall under Communist domination. This is the "inside story" of the lengthening shadow of the Communist Threat — from a man who speaks from bitter personal knowledge and experience. It is a story that must shake America out of its complacency — and soon — or it will forever be too late!

3 Killed, 8 Injured At Binghamton Airport

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (UPI)— a 10-seater Commuter Airlines Inc., twin engine plane swerved off the runway upon takeoff and crashed into a catwalk, killing three persons and injuring eight others Sunday.

Officials said there was no immediate evidence of a mechanical malfunction and noted that wet snow and sleet was falling at the time of the crash, approximately 4 p.m., at Broome County Airport.

Those killed included the pilot, Millard Phillips, 43, of Jacksonville, Fla.; and two passengers, Myron Ferito, 76, of Binghamton, and Mrs. Olive Carr, 71, of Sidney, in nearby Delaware County.

The injured were taken to Charles S. Wilson Memorial Hospital where one was critical, two in serious condition and the others listed as fair.

In critical condition was Maleane Norcross, 45, of Potomac, Md.

Serious, and in the intensive care unit, were David M. Griffin, 26, of Endicott, and Helen Weeden, 67, of Sidney, who apparently crawled from the wrecked plane leaving a trail of blood.

Among those in fair condition was Ernest G. Wignall, 43, assistant vice president of the Binghamton Savings Bank.

The Federal Aeronautics Administration, which sent experts to the scene from Rochester, said the crash occurred at 4:11 p.m., one-quarter-mile southeast of the airport.

"No malfunction was reported by the pilot," the FAA said in a statement from the Broome tower. "At the time of the departure, there was a moderate snowfall at the airport with a ceiling of 300 feet and visibility of one-half-mile."

Commuter had taken over the flight from Eastern in November.

A request by Mohawk to fly a parallel route had been turned down earlier in the weekend. A June 23, 1967, Mohawk crash at Blossburg, Pa., 65 miles southwest of Binghamton, on an Elmira-to-Washington flight killed 34 persons.

The Broome tower said the destination of the 10-seat Commuter Beechcraft was Washington, D.C.

The plane swerved about 35 yards off the runway, authorities said, and went under a catwalk. Two poles supporting the catwalk were taken down and one wing of the plane was sheared off.

Seeks Weapons Movement Freeze

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield says he hopes to get approval of a resolution urging a mutual freeze on strategic weapons deployment before U.S.-Soviet arms talks resume next month in spite of a chilly response by President Nixon.

The resolution, approved unanimously by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, was called irrelevant by President Nixon during his weekend news conference.

Nevertheless, Mansfield said, "I hope to get it to the floor in a reasonable length of time before the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks are resumed" April 16. He acknowledged there will be opposition.

The committee Friday adopted, on a 10-0 vote, a resolution to have the Senate express its support for a U.S.-Soviet moratorium on deployment of both offensive and defensive strategic weapons systems.

The resolution is a broadened version of a measure that originally advocated a mutual freeze on a new offensive weapon, MIRV— the multiple independently-targeted re-entry vehicle— with which the nuclear warheads on one missile could be aimed at several different targets.

As it stands now, the resolution also would cover antiballistic missile systems.

The resolution would have no force; it would simply express the view of the Senate.

Nixon said Saturday the arms control situation is more intricate than the resolution would imply.

"That's what SALT is about," he said of the Senate proposal. "So I think it's irrelevant."

Area Sub Sailors to Meet

POUGHKEEPSIE

Submarine sailors of the area will mark National Submarine Day on April 11 at Holiday Inn in Fishkill with a banquet and ceremonies to honor the memory of those who sacrificed their lives while in service with the U.S. Navy.

Henry E. "Moose" Karn, chairman of the event, noted that this is the 25th year since the end of World War II and the 70th year since the first submarine Holland was put in commission in the Navy.

Area residents throughout the Albany-Mohawk district who lost a member of their family while serving on submarines, or who have a member of their family now serving on subs, are invited to attend the memorial event.

Memorial services will be conducted on Saturday and Sunday, April 11 and 12 in memory of those aboard the 52 submarines lost during World War II and the crew of the Thresher and Scorpion which were lost after the war.

A contest is being conducted to find the submarine sailor in the area who has the earliest entry of year in the service on subs. The earliest enlistee will be guest of honor for the weekend at Holiday Inn.

Registration will start at noon on April 11 with a cocktail party from 6:30 to 7:30, followed by the banquet that will precede memorial services from 8:39 to 9:30 p.m. after which dancing will be featured to the tune of Russ Gilmore's orchestra until 1:30 a.m.

4 Youths Held In School Break-in

ELLENVILLE

Charged with third degree burglary in connection with an entry at the Ellenville High School late Sunday night, two 16-year-old youths and two juveniles were taken into custody by police. Another arrest was expected to be made.

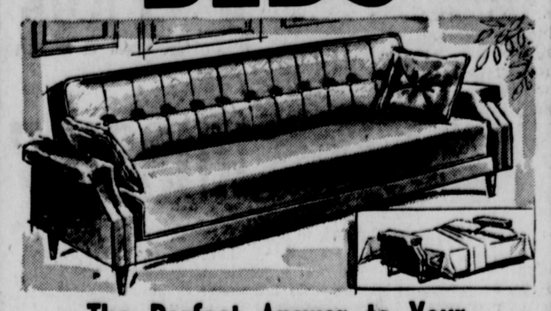

Patrolman Leonard Quick reportedly took the youths in custody in the school which they allegedly had entered through a window leading from a fire escape. It was not immediately determined whether anything was taken.

Booked were Charles Griffith and Clifford Doyle, both of Monticello. They were arraigned before Police Justice Ronald W. Elias, who committed them to the county jail in lieu of $500 bail each and adjourned hearing until Tuesday at 7 p.m.

The juveniles face an appearance in Family Court.

Judge Elias assigned Attorney Herbert Weinsoff to represent Griffith and Albert Lonstein was appointed counsel for Doyle.

'Y' Executive Director Is Appointed to Panel

KINGSTON — Executive director of the Kingston and Ulster County YMCA, Robert Stubbs has been named to the Young American Award panel.

Announcement of the appointment was made today by Max Schoff, manager of the local Montgomery Ward store which sponsors the program. Young American awards are given monthly during the school year to outstanding high school seniors as a way of stressing the scholastic and civic achievements of young people in the community. A Young American of the Year recipient is selected in June from the year's award winners.

Stubbs replaces the Rev. William A. Studwell, former pastor of Clinton Avenue United Methodist Church and former president of the Kingston Area Council of Churches who left the area to assume a pastorate in Westchester County.

The new panel member is well known in the Kingston area. He has served as YMCA director since March 1, 1966. Currently he is president of the Council of Social Agencies and serves as a member of the planning committee of the Ulster County Community Chest and the character building and recreation council of the chest.

ROBERT STUBBS

Top Legion Program Scheduled Tuesday

KINGSTON — One of the major events of Kingston Post 150 American Legion's Americanism on the March program will be the presentation Tuesday, 8 p.m. in George Washington School of John Noble, who was held captive for 9½ years in a Soviet slave labor camp.

The local Legion Post is presenting the program free of charge and expects a capacity audience.

Noble, a native of Detroit, Mich., has been touring the nation telling his story, "I Was a Slave in Russia."

The brochures of Noble's background tells how he was held a prisoner behind barbed wire in a Soviet slave labor camp in the Arctic wastes of Siberia.

The Americanism Committee of the Legion notes in its announcement that "this is the inside story of the lengthening shadow of the Communist threat from a man who speaks from bitter personal knowledge and experience.

The committee has already presented 43 mini programs for organizations throughout the county since the project began in February 1968. Most of the program present slied projections and talks by members of the committee.

Commander John E. Van Dine and Americanism Chairman Robert Post said Noble, since returning to America as a free man in 1955, has traveled more than 150,000 miles to keep his promise to those who are still in slavery.

6 Face Court For MV Violations

KINGSTON — Summonses were issued by police to several motorists accused of vehicle and traffic violations over the weekend.

Albert J. Leonardo Jr., 19, of 33 Furnace Street, was charged with unlicensed operation. Harold Christian, 19, of 44 Yeomans Street, was booked for speeding, and Vernon Smith, 19, of 194 Harwich Street, was summoned for failure to produce a registration.

Burt R. Delavan, 18, of 13 DuBois Street, was accused of making unnecessary noise with the tires of his car and unsafe start. Robert A. Briordy, 17, of 112 Cedar Street, was cited for violating terms of his junior operator's license, by driving a car after dark.

Douglas Boughton, 19, of 34 Hunter Street, was summoned for failure to produce a registration certificate and a muffler violation.

Ulster GOP Lists DuBois as Speaker

TOWN OF ULSTER — County Treasurer Fred H. DuBois will speak at the Town of Ulster Republican Club's March 26 meeting to be held at 8 p. m. at the Lake Katrine Grange Hall.

DuBois, a former Councilman and Supervisor of the Town of New Paltz, has an outstanding and varied record of service to the County.

A member of the New Paltz Reformed Church, he has been a 4-H Club leader, past Master of Huguenot Grange and served on the New Paltz School Board.

He is past president of the Ulster County Extension Service and is presently on the Board of Directors of the Agricultural Department of the Extension Service.

DuBois was a member of the Advisory Council of the Animal Husbandry Department of Cornell University. He has served as Chairman of Finance Campaign of Cornell University. He has served as Chairman of Finance Campaign for Rip VanWinkle Council, BSA, and is a trustee of the New Paltz Savings Bank.

DuBois has held the office of Ulster County Treasurer for the past eight years and in November he will seek his fifth term to that post.

DuBois will conclude his talk with a question-answer period from the members. All Club members are urged to attend this meeting and bring a friend.

Kingston Man To Face Court On Interference

KINGSTON — Wayne Passer, 23, of 8 North Wilbur Avenue, was arrested Saturday afternoon by Detective Edward Ortlieb on a charge of obstructing governmental administration. He was scheduled for an appearance in City Court.

According to the complaint, Passer allegedly stepped between two women the detective was questioning about an incident and used obscenity to the officer.

Victim Identified

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Police have identified the boy of a 27-year-old Cohoes man as the victim of a three-car collision on Route 9 in Loudonville Saturday evening.

Police said that Francis Fleming, 27, was driving a rented foreign car which ran off the road after the impact, rolled over and burned. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Albany Medical Center Hospital.

Kiwanians View Slide Presentation

KINGSTON — The international projection of IBM, through its subsidiary corporation IBM World Trade, was the subject of a talk and slide presentation given before the Kingston Kiwanis Club recently by Vern May of the local IBM installation.

May said that the IBM World Trade subsidiary was a $2½ million operation and that it dealt with governments all over the world. He explained that the many world plants were subject to the rules and regulations of the government of the area where it was located.

Color slides of the IBM World Trade plants and interior views of their individual operations were shown and explained by the speaker.

Rescue Squad Will Continue In Rhinebeck

RHINEBECK — The Rhinebeck Rescue Squad is guaranteed operation after the lapse of its insurance April 1, according to Mayor Peter Sipperley.

He said that the squad, which has had difficulty procuring adequate insurance and was threatened discontinuation, will be insured by the village until other arrangements can be made.

The Rhinebeck Rescue Squad is the only one in Dutchess County which operates independently of a fire company. This alignment might be arranged for in the future, since the fire department is under the auspices of the village, but Eugene Edwards, president of the squad, said it would reimburse the village for any added expense.

Meanwhile, officers of the squad are still looking for an insurance company that will insure the squad, thereby allowing it to maintain its independence.

It is also possible that the squad might affiliate with Northern Dutchess Hospital. Michael Pichera, president of the hospital board, has expressed concern with the situation and offered to look into that possibility.

The Rhinebeck Rescue Squad has operated since 1956, working within 25 miles of Northern Dutchess Hospital.

Area Doctors Are Invited To Teaching Day

KINGSTON — Area physicians have been invited to a comprehensive review of the progress in chemical treatment of tumors which will be presented at a Doctors' Teaching Day in Cancer at the Albany Medical College on March 26, beginning at 9 a. m. in the College's Huyck Auditorium.

Director of the teaching day is Dr. John Horton, associate professor of medicine at Albany Medical College. Guest speakers for the program are: Dr. James F. Holland, research professer of medicine at the State University of New York at Buffalo School of Medicine and chief of medicine at the Roswell Park Memorial Institute; Dr. Enrica Mihich, principal cancer research scientist at the Roswell Park Memorial Institute; and Dr. Larry Nathanson, assistant professor of medicine at the Tufts University School of Medicine and chief of the oncology service at the New England Medical Center Hospital.

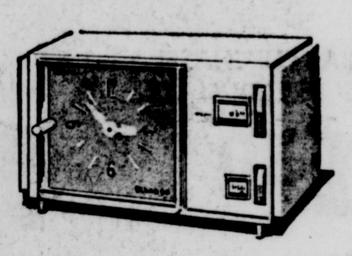

This program is designed to present the latest information on drugs used in chemotherapy and their relationship to other cancer treatments, and to do so in a manner which will have meaning for the genera practicing physician.

4 Youths Held In School Break-in

ELLENVILLE

Charged with third degree burglary in connection with an entry at the Ellenville High School late Sunday night, two 16-year-old youths and two juveniles were taken into custody by police. Another arrest was expected to be made.

Patrolman Leonard Quick reportedly took the youths in custody in the school which they allegedly had entered through a window leading from a fire escape. It was not immediately determined whether anything was taken.

Booked were Charles Griffith and Clifford Doyle, both of Monticello. They were arraigned before Police Justice Ronald W. Elias, who committed them to the county jail in lieu of $500 bail each and adjourned hearing until Tuesday at 7 p.m.

The juveniles face an appearance in Family Court.

Judge Elias assigned Attorney Herbert Weinsoff to represent Griffith and Albert Lonstein was appointed counsel for Doyle.

'Y' Executive Director Is Appointed to Panel

KINGSTON — Executive director of the Kingston and Ulster County YMCA, Robert Stubbs has been named to the Young American Award panel.

Announcement of the appointment was made today by Max Schoff, manager of the local Montgomery Ward store which sponsors the program. Young American awards are given monthly during the school year to outstanding high school seniors as a way of stressing the scholastic and civic achievements of young people in the community. A Young American of the Year recipient is selected in June from the year's award winners.

Stubbs replaces the Rev. William A. Studwell, former pastor of Clinton Avenue United Methodist Church and former president of the Kingston Area Council of Churches who left the area to assume a pastorate in Westchester County.

The new panel member is well known in the Kingston area. He has served as YMCA director since March 1, 1966. Currently he is president of the Council of Social Agencies and serves as a member of the planning committee of the Ulster County Community Chest and the character building and recreation council of the chest.

ROBERT STUBBS

Top Legion Program Scheduled Tuesday

KINGSTON — One of the major events of Kingston Post 150 American Legion's Americanism on the March program will be the presentation Tuesday, 8 p.m. in George Washington School of John Noble, who was held captive for 9½ years in a Soviet slave labor camp.

The local Legion Post is presenting the program free of charge and expects a capacity audience.

Noble, a native of Detroit, Mich., has been touring the nation telling his story, "I Was a Slave in Russia."

The brochures of Noble's background tells how he was held a prisoner behind barbed wire in a Soviet slave labor camp in the Arctic wastes of Siberia.

The Americanism Committee of the Legion notes in its announcement that "this is the inside story of the lengthening shadow of the Communist threat from a man who speaks from bitter personal knowledge and experience.

The committee has already presented 43 mini programs for organizations throughout the county since the project began in February 1968. Most of the program present slied projections and talks by members of the committee.

Commander John E. Van Dine and Americanism Chairman Robert Post said Noble, since returning to America as a free man in 1955, has traveled more than 150,000 miles to keep his promise to those who are still in slavery.

6 Face Court For MV Violations

KINGSTON — Summonses were issued by police to several motorists accused of vehicle and traffic violations over the weekend.

Albert J. Leonardo Jr., 19, of 33 Furnace Street, was charged with unlicensed operation. Harold Christian, 19, of 44 Yeomans Street, was booked for speeding, and Vernon Smith, 19, of 194 Harwich Street, was summoned for failure to produce a registration.

Burt R. Delavan, 18, of 13 DuBois Street, was accused of making unnecessary noise with the tires of his car and unsafe start. Robert A. Briordy, 17, of 112 Cedar Street, was cited for violating terms of his junior operator's license, by driving a car after dark.

Douglas Boughton, 19, of 34 Hunter Street, was summoned for failure to produce a registration certificate and a muffler violation.

Ulster GOP Lists DuBois as Speaker

TOWN OF ULSTER — County Treasurer Fred H. DuBois will speak at the Town of Ulster Republican Club's March 26 meeting to be held at 8 p. m. at the Lake Katrine Grange Hall.

DuBois, a former Councilman and Supervisor of the Town of New Paltz, has an outstanding and varied record of service to the County.

A member of the New Paltz Reformed Church, he has been a 4-H Club leader, past Master of Huguenot Grange and served on the New Paltz School Board.

He is past president of the Ulster County Extension Service and is presently on the Board of Directors of the Agricultural Department of the Extension Service.

DuBois was a member of the Advisory Council of the Animal Husbandry Department of Cornell University. He has served as Chairman of Finance Campaign of Cornell University. He has served as Chairman of Finance Campaign for Rip VanWinkle Council, BSA, and is a trustee of the New Paltz Savings Bank.

DuBois has held the office of Ulster County Treasurer for the past eight years and in November he will seek his fifth term to that post.

DuBois will conclude his talk with a question-answer period from the members. All Club members are urged to attend this meeting and bring a friend.

Kingston Man To Face Court On Interference

KINGSTON — Wayne Passer, 23, of 8 North Wilbur Avenue, was arrested Saturday afternoon by Detective Edward Ortlieb on a charge of obstructing governmental administration. He was scheduled for an appearance in City Court.

According to the complaint, Passer allegedly stepped between two women the detective was questioning about an incident and used obscenity to the officer.

Victim Identified

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Police have identified the boy of a 27-year-old Cohoes man as the victim of a three-car collision on Route 9 in Loudonville Saturday evening.

Police said that Francis Fleming, 27, was driving a rented foreign car which ran off the road after the impact, rolled over and burned. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Albany Medical Center Hospital.

Kiwanians View Slide Presentation

KINGSTON — The international projection of IBM, through its subsidiary corporation IBM World Trade, was the subject of a talk and slide presentation given before the Kingston Kiwanis Club recently by Vern May of the local IBM installation.

May said that the IBM World Trade subsidiary was a $2½ million operation and that it dealt with governments all over the world. He explained that the many world plants were subject to the rules and regulations of the government of the area where it was located.

Color slides of the IBM World Trade plants and interior views of their individual operations were shown and explained by the speaker.

Rescue Squad Will Continue In Rhinebeck

RHINEBECK — The Rhinebeck Rescue Squad is guaranteed operation after the lapse of its insurance April 1, according to Mayor Peter Sipperley.

He said that the squad, which has had difficulty procuring adequate insurance and was threatened discontinuation, will be insured by the village until other arrangements can be made.

The Rhinebeck Rescue Squad is the only one in Dutchess County which operates independently of a fire company. This alignment might be arranged for in the future, since the fire department is under the auspices of the village, but Eugene Edwards, president of the squad, said it would reimburse the village for any added expense.

Meanwhile, officers of the squad are still looking for an insurance company that will insure the squad, thereby allowing it to maintain its independence.

It is also possible that the squad might affiliate with Northern Dutchess Hospital. Michael Fichera, president of the hospital board, has expressed concern with the situation and offered to look into that possibility.

The Rhinebeck Rescue Squad has operated since 1956, working within 25 miles of Northern Dutchess Hospital.

Area Doctors Are Invited To Teaching Day

KINGSTON — Area physicians have been invited to a comprehensive review of the progress in chemical treatment of tumors which will be presented at a Doctors' Teaching Day in Cancer at the Albany Medical College on March 26, beginning at 9 a. m. in the College's Huyck Auditorium.

Director of the teaching day is Dr. John Horton, associate professor of medicine at Albany Medical College. Guest speakers for the program are: Dr. James F. Holland, research professer of medicine at the State University of New York at Buffalo School of Medicine and chief of medicine at the Roswell Park Memorial Institute; Dr. Enrica Mihich, principal cancer research scientist at the Roswell Park Memorial Institute; and Dr. Larry Nathanson, assistant professor of medicine at the Tufts University School of Medicine and chief of the oncology service at the New England Medical Center Hospital.

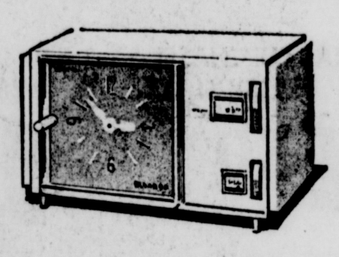

This program is designed to present the latest information on drugs used in chemotherapy and their relationship to other cancer treatments, and to do so in a manner which will have meaning for the genera practicing physician.

New Paltz College Library Receives A $1,000 Gift

NEW PALTZ

A $1,000 gift to the State University College Library here was received recently by Librarian Richard Shepherd from a woman who began her college studies 40 years ago and who received her Bachelor Degree this past January.

Mrs. Dorothy Hunter, a records specialist with the U.S. Agency for International Development (AID), presented the gift to the college as "A new alumna" of the State University. On leave from AID duties in Hondouras, Mrs. Hunter completed six courses at the New Paltz college last semester, completed her requirements for a BA with a major in Psychology.

The new graduate had attended college in the Phoenix College, Arizona; the University of Miami, the University of Maryland, New York University, and George Washington University in Washington, D. C., during her 40 years career as a "part time student."

While attending New Paltz, Mrs. Hunter resided with her sister Mrs. Mary Bianchini of South Nyack.

The gift to the library was accepted by the college during informal luncheon at the residence of New Paltz college president John J. Neumaier.

The funds are to be used by the library to assist in the "expanding to its Latin American holdings along with its study programs in that region," according to a college spokesman.

Mrs Hunter has worked as a AID specialist in Argentina and in Honduras, with vast experience in those countries and an interest in Latin America.

LIBRARY GIFT—Mrs Dorothy Hunter (C), a recent graduate of the State University College at New Paltz, presents a check for $1,000 for use by the college's library to Librarian Richard Shephard (R) and college president John J. Neumaier.

Apple Growers to Vote March 31

KINGSTON

New York State apple growers will go to the polls March 31 to decide if they want to nearly double their assessments for advertising and promoting their annual crop.

Organized growers petitioned the State Commissioner of Agriculture and Marketing, Don J. Wickham, to amend the statewide order under which their fruit is marketed and which limits the assessments on all growers. The Commissioner conducted public hearings at Albany and Rochester prior to directing the vote on the last day of March.

The assessments create a promotion fund of approximately $400,000 a year. The increases would up that amount to about $700,000.

Commissioner Wickham has designated 46 polling places and any person in the State engaged in the business of producing apple for any market is entitled to vote. Locally polls will be open from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. on March 31 in the Kingston and Poughkeepsie Courthouses.

Marbletown To Purchase Grange Building

MARBLETOWN

Negotiations have been concluded for the purchase of the Grange building and property in Stone Ridge by the Town of Marbletown, according to Kenneth Smith, Marbletown Supervisor.

Smith said that a letter signed by Mrs. Margaret E. Osterhoudt, secretary of the Stone Ridge Grange 931 dated March 20, stated that, at a meeting held on March 17, a motion was offered and unanimously passed to accept the offer made by the town board.

The offer, an agreed price, as fullpayment comes to $3,776.93.

John Wilkie, attorney for Marbletown, has offered to conduct the legal procedure for both the Grange and the town.

The town board has not yet decided what will be done with the building. It is thought that if any person would like to purchase the building and move it, he should contact Supervisor Smith at the Town Hall.

Kingston Woman Pays $25 Fine For Shoplifting

TOWN OF ULSTER

Accused of shoplifting merchandise at the Big Scot Department Store on Route 28 Saturday afternoon, Marguerita Rivea, 29, of 60 Franklin Street, was arrested on a charge of petit larceny.

Security Officer Herbert O'Brien who made the arrest with Trooper Robert Molloy, arraigned the woman before Town of Hurley Justice C. H. DuMond. She pleaded guilty and paid a $25 fine.

O'Brien said the defendant was charged with taking two maternity dresses and a pair of boy's shoes valued at $11.99. The merchandise was recovered.

Yoga Class at Y

Tom McKee, an experienced teacher in the art of yoga, will instruct a yoga class offered by the YMCA for men and women beginning April 6. The class will meet from 7 p.m. until 9 p.m. for ten consecutive Monday evenings. The class is open to all high school and adult members of the YMCA. Proper attire for the course will consist of comfortable gym clothes, bare feet and a small mat.

Judo-Karate Course

Al Gerard, former graduate of the Kodokan Judo College of Tokyo, Japan, will conduct a special eight-week course for beginners in Judo-Karate beginning on April 7.

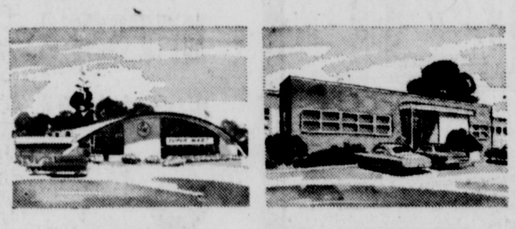

Registrations are now being accepted for the course which will be held for adults in the evening. A course for children from ages 10 and older also is planned. These courses are being provided by the Kingston School of Ballet.

BPW Compiling 'Talent Bank' for White House

The National Federation of Business and Professional Women has agreed to act as a clearing house and supply the White House with names of women it and other women's organizations endorse for positions at $20,000 a year and above.

Because few women are receiving policymaking federal jobs, the Nixon Administration has decided to consider names from the organization-sponsored "talent bank."

Locally, Ulster County Business and Professional Women's Club President Virginia Neher has appointed two women to compile a list of outstanding women for the BPW Federation in Washington. Drawing up the list are Dorothy A. Narel, woman's page editor of The Daily Freeman, and Hilda Krum, board member for the Ulster County Mental Health Association. Mrs. Narel is past president of the Ulster County BPW and Mrs. Krum has served the club on its board of directors.

When the local lists are completed they will be forwarded to the BPW chairman of the Committee on Status of Women, Olive L. Deuel.

The National BPW is setting up a file listing all regulatory agency seats and other appointments that will expire this year and plans to submit names endorsed by its members and other organizations.

An application form will be printed in the BPW's April issue of National Business Woman. At the same time, questionnaires are being circulated to women leaders.

In announcing the "talent bank," Myra Ruth Harmon, national BPW president, said that the White House claimed that the reason more women had not received appointments was that there had been no formal procedure to assist the White House in finding qualified women.

The first eight women's names sent last week to Charles W. Colson, special counsel to the President, for consideration in filling the new 16-member Commission on School Finance established by executive order March 3. The commission will study and report on future revenue needs of secondary and elementary schools.

In connection with any vacancies, Colson has agreed that names of educated, experienced women endorsed by the BPW and other organizations would be given equal consideration.

Planning for Community Concert Tea

The membership campaign committee for the Community Concert Association of Kingston met this week at the home of Mrs. William Rylance to formulate plans for the annual Captains' and Workers' Tea to be held April 19 from 3 to 5 p.m. at Bethany Hall in the Old Dutch Church on Wall Street, Kingston.

The committee wishes to emphasize the importance of attending the tea because it is at this time that all materials and instructions are delivered to the workers, and all plans for the coming campaign are discussed. Mrs. Dorothy Holmes, Community Concerts Representative from New York City, will be a guest and all officers and Board Members are invited to be present.

Mrs. Rylance and Mrs. Vincent P. Berardi feel "especially privileged to announce that entertainment will be provided under the chairmanship of Howard Houghtaling, well-known and exceptionally gifted pianist, organist, and director of the Hammond Organ Studio. Mr. Houghtaling will announce the program at a later date.

Captains, by area, for the membership campaign are: Tannersville-Hunter, Mrs. Leroy Atwater; New Paltz, Kenneth Baumgartner; Woodstock, Mrs. Jack Citroen and Mrs. Charles Talleur; Saugerties-Mt. Marion, Miss Barbara Genthner; Red Hook-Rhinebeck, Mrs. C. B. Glowienka and Mrs. Peter Oakhill; High Falls-Rosendale, Mrs. Ernest Jansen; Stone Ridge, Robert Palmatier; Port Ewen, Mrs. Robert Scherer; Hurley, Mrs. Charles Selzo; Kingston, Mrs. Vincent P. Berardi, Mrs. John Crews, Miss Anne Goldrick, Mrs. Ralph Harper, John Hill, Miss Mary Keresman, Mrs. Henry Millonig Sr., Mrs. William Rylance, and Mrs. George Wert.

30th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Walter W. Stanley of Saugerties were feted by friends at a dinner in Skyline Restaurant, Catskill, on Saturday, Feb. 21, in observance of their 30th wedding anniversary.

Travelling to Morrisville on Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley were told their daughter, Stella Elizabeth, a laboratory technician student at State University of New York at Morrisville, had been chosen Queen of Weekend Activities during the Saturday night formal.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

Exhibit At UCCC

A collection of original prints by artists from around the world are now on exhibit in The Visual Arts Gallery of Ulster County Community College to March 27. The exhibition, "Artist as Printmaker," is in keeping with the college's Department of Visual Arts continuing Art Series to bring varied art experiences to the community, students and faculty. Area residents are welcome to visit the college and view this exhibition.

The exhibition consists of 25 original prints by artists of 24 nations including Nigeria, Taiwan, Japan, Sweden, Poland, England, Korea, Yugoslavia, USSR and France. Experimental processes are represented as well as linoleum cuts, woodblocks, lithographs, etchings, engravings, aquatints and serigraphs. Illustrated explanations of the varied graphic techniques and methods of printmaking accompanies this unique print exhibition.

The prints are concerned with poetic abstractions, structural elements of realism as well as natural forms of nature. The works reflect the environment and philosophy of the artists' origins. The prints are signed and numbered by the artists.

The exhibtion is circulated by the Pratt Center for Contemporary Printmaking through the New York State Council of the Arts.

SETTING THE MOOD for the upcoming Benedictine Hospital Auxiliary dinner-dance is a very busy committee. Some of those involved with interpreting the mystery of the occasion's theme, ZIZANIE, are (L-R) Mrs. James Myers, chairman; Mrs. Joseph Riggins, Mrs. William Ryan, Mrs. Harold Dittus and Mrs. Frank Reis. Also assisting with the gala April 4 event at the Governor Clinton Hotel are the Mmes. John Nilsen, Warren Mann, James Craven, Nicholas Radakovich, David Potter, Frank Machung, Edmund Tomaselli, Joseph Trafaconti, Othman Abu-Gheida, and Robert Diamond. Mrs. Elvin McDonal, president of the Woodstock Jayncees, has announced its membership also will be assisting the above-mentioned group. The Jayncees voted in favor of working on the decorations committee as a community project. (Freeman photo by Haines)

To Direct Hope Chapel Choir at Port Ewen Church

DR. ROBERT W. CAVANAUGH

Dr. Robert W. Cavanaugh, head of the music department of Hope College in Holland, Mich., will direct the Hope College Chapel Choir when it appears Thursdays at 8 p.m. at Reformed Church of Port Ewen.

Professor Cavanaugh is a native of Milwaukee schools and later was soloist in the Washington Park English Lutheran Church. During his high school days, he was the youngest member of the Milwaukee Lyric Male Chorus.

Cavanaugh received his undergraduate training at the University of Wisconsin where he received two baccalaureate degrees in 1937. While there he took an active part in the University Glee Club, serving as president of that organization. He also sang leading roles in several musical comedies offered by the university. He later studied at the American Conservatory of Music in Chicago under Theodore Harrison and Leo Sowerby. The Bachelor of Music degree was conferred upon him by the conservatory in 1939 and the Master of Music degree in 1940.

It was in that year that Professor Cavanaugh joined the faculty of Hope College. He stepped into a full schedule of teaching voice and theory and directed the Chapel Choir and the Men's Glee Club.

At that time he also directed the choir at the Third Reformed Church in Holland.

"Prof," as the choir members affectionately call him, left Hope in 1943 to serve as a lieutenant in the United States Navy. He returned to Hope in 1946.

Dr. Cavanaugh was admitted to candidacy for his doctorate in musicology at the University of Michigan during the summers, and spent the school year of 1949-50 in residence there. He passed his final oral examination and received his doctor's degree in the spring of 1953.

Woman's Club Will Hear 'Singing Nun'

The Woman's Club of Saugerties will be treated to a special evening when they meet on Thursday, Mar. 26. Mrs. Richard Dunn, chairman of the Literature and Music Department of the Club, has made arrangements for Sister Mary Robert, O.S.F. to appear before the group. Sister will bring her guitar and musically illustrate her topic, "Music in the Life of Young Women."

Sister Mary Robert is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Wing of Camillus, N. Y. She received her Bachelor of Science degree in Humanities from LeMoyne College, and her Master's degree in Music Education from the Catholic University of America, Washington, D. C. During her graduate work, Sister was a member of the United Choruses of Catholic University and Howard University, under the direction of Dean Howard Lawson. These choruses performed the Memorial Requiem for President John F. Kennedy with the Baltimore Symphony under the baton of Peter H. Adler of New York City Opera Company, and the premier performance of the "Song of Human Rights," under the direction of Dr. Howard Mitchell, and composed by Howard Hanson. Th latter is the inaugural address of President Kennedy set to music.

Upon completion of her graduate work at C.U., Sister was awarded a scholarship to continue her doctoral studies. Since there was a choice of entering into a Consortium program, this is what Sister did—studying at three universities in order to complete her course work. This took her not only to the campus of Howard University, but likewise to that of the University of Windsor, Canada to study at the International Summer School of Liturgy, under Juan Mateos, S.J., from the Second Vatican Council, and Gerhard Track, former director of the Vienna Boys' Choir. Recently Sister studied at the World Library of Sacred Music Workshop held in Cazenozia, at which Lucien Deiss from the Concilium at Rome was the chief instructor.

Sister is a member of the Music Educators' National Conference, the New York State School Music Association, and of its special branch for Junior Colleges, the National Catholic Music Educators, and the College Music Society. She directs the choral group of Maria Regina College in Syracuse, as well as teaches the courses in Music Education given there. Her background in teaching takes her from the Kindergarten to Graduate level, from New York State itself to Hawaii.

Mrs. Dunn extends an invitation to interested area women to attend, and reports that special invitations have already been extended to Saugerties Girl Scouts and Senior Citizens, as well as the Sisters from St. Mary of the Snow Convent in Saugerties. The meeting is scheduled for 8 p.m. at the Dutch Arms Chapel. Members are advised that tickets for this year's presentation of Children's Theater will be available at the meeting.

Benefit Card Party Scheduled

The Hurley Library Association will sponsor a card party and bridge tournament to benefit the Hurley Library on Wednesday evening, Apr. 1 at 8 p.m. at the Hurley Reformed Church. Dr. Harry McNamara, chairman of the benefit, has announced that the bridge tournament will be under the direction of Ralph Wesselman. Master points will be awarded and trophies will be given to the winning players. There will also be many tables available for general card games, for those who do not wish to participate in the tournament.

As in past years, this annual event will feature home made refreshments and there will be a gala array of awards.

Tickets may be purchased from any member of the Board of Trustees of the Hurley Library Association or at the door that evening.

Tiny Tips

NEEDS ARE GREATER

If it seems as though your water heater has shrunk in the last few years, check your premises: It hasn't. Your water needs have become greater. Use of water-connected equipment has grown 60 per cent in the last 10 years, with the greatest increase taking place in the last five. This means that, if your water heater is five years or older, it may be obsolete capacity-wise even if it functions perfectly mechanically. The answer is a new heater with a bigger tank and faster recovery rate.

BETTER LIFE WITH WATER

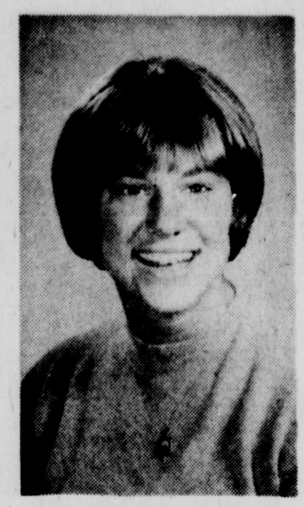

There are more and more ways that water can make life more pleasant for you. Some of them are: Two lavatories in one or more of your bathrooms; a home steam bath; automatic sprinkler systems; a swimming pool; and hot and cold water in the garage.

Elected 'Overwhelmingly' To Office at Rosemont College

Miss Deborah Clarke Rifenbary has been elected President of the Student Government Association at Rosemont College, Rosemont, Pa. Campaigning for a "stream-lined S.G.A.," that is less structural and involved and more closely associated with all school activities," Miss Rifenbary won by an overwhelming majority. She will assume office after the Easter Holidays, and continue until the 1971 election.

A junior at the college, Miss Rifenbary has had an auspicious background. She is a graduate of the former Academy of St. Ursula elementary department, having received the General Excellency Award. She was in the first ninth year graduation class at the J. Watson Bailey Jr. High School, and is a 1967 graduate of Kingston High School.

Throughout her high school years, she was active in student government affairs, serving on its Council and as recording secretary her senior year. She was also the recipient of the DAR Good Citizenship Award and the Student Council Scholarship for dedicated service to her school. She was also a member of the girls' Ski Team, when they captured the Section 9 championships.

DEBORAH C. RIFENBARY
(Photo Workshop)

At Rosemont, Miss Rifenbary was elected border representative to Student Government in her freshman year; president of the sophomore class; and until her recent election was serving as Junior Border Rep. to the Council. Rosemont College, which is located on Philadelphia's Main Line, has an enrollment of 1,000 students. It is a four-year liberal arts Catholic College for women conducted by the Sisters of the Holy Child Jesus and a lay staff. Academically, it is ranked third in the country of Catholic women's colleges.

Miss Rifenbary is majoring in English with a minor in Psychology. She plans to attend graduate school upon her graduation in 1971, working towards her Masters. Her future plans include teaching on the Junior High School level.

Miss Rifenbary's home is on Flower Hill, Kingston. She is the daughter of Mrs. George C. Rifenbary and the late Dr. Rifenbary.

Local Student Performs in Play

Miss Susan Sapp, daughter of Patrolman and Mrs. Louis Sapp Jr. of 121 Fairview Avenue, Kingston, is a member of the cast of "Marat Sade" which was presented Saturday, March 21 at Yale University.

The Peter Weiss play was performed by the "Torchbearers" drama society of Pace College, New York. The group recently won the Regional Championship in intercollegiate competition in New York City. On Sunday, March 29, they will compete in state finals at Corning.

Miss Sapp, a graduate of St. Ursula Academy, is a Junior at Pace College where she is majoring in Social Psychology.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise:

There are any number of dishes which call for "cooked ground meat" and are very much improved in my opinion by using "ground cooked meat." This can be the less desireable parts of a beef roast, or the edges of a chuck steak or roast.

The chuck steak (or at least part of it) makes a wonderful steak when properly tenderized, especially if one uses just the center section.

The edges and the less desireable parts may be browned and then simmered in a little water for about an hour and then used in such dishes as casseroles, Mexican food dishes (chili con carne, enchiladas), etc., in fact any recipe that calls for cooked ground meat.

There is no grainy quality about this meat that you so often find when hamburger is fried and then crumbled. Also, the fat can very easily be taken off and this is not possible with ground meat.

This idea applies to chicken too. Most people prefer the legs and breast when eating fried chicken. If you will gently simmer the rest — back, neck, wings, etc., the cooked meat can be used in various dishes, especially if you add chicken bouillon to the water that you are cooking the chicken in.

Try it, I think you'll find there is no comparison.

Mrs. Shirley George . . . and Shirley, did you know that if you have wild game, venison and the like in your freezer (left from hubby's last hunting trip or a gift from the boss), it is out of this world when used in dishes that call for cooked meat and I guarantee you that it can't be beaten.

And it's a good way to help clear out the freezer of that wild game, especially those less desireable cuts.

Heloise

Letter of Laughter

Dear Heloise:

I got so sick of the cap sticking on top of a famous brand glue that I took my pliers, pulled it off, snipped the top off and got a nail with a head from my husband's tool box and rammed it down in.

It's easy to pull the nailhead out and it never sticks.

I suppose one could use the pliers?

Rays, Sickler's in Opener

By MORT LAFFIN

POUGHKEEPSIE — Two Kingston-based clubs, Sickler's Delivery and Ray's Chevrolet, play opening round games in the Annual Poughkeepsie YMCA Hudson Valley Basketball tournament. The tourney begins tonight when Sickler's meets the Mid-Valley Mall at the new Y gym at Eastman Park, starting at 7:15 p.m.

Ray's locks horns with Bob Knight's All-Army squad from West Point, in the second game on the schedule.

The tourney continues Wednesday, when Fellicello's Pipers, winners of the Poughkeepsie City League, take on the Paddock Chargers, runners-up to the Pipers in that division at 7:15.

In the second tilt, the perennial favorites and defending champs, the Pine Plains Bombadiers, go against last year's runner-up, the Dutchess Flyers.

The semi-finals are slated for March 30 and the finals, with a consolation game, will be played April 1.

Sickler's will feature many stars from Ulster County Community College, including Jerry Moss, Gary Kirkwood, Glenn Berry, Linell Marshall and newcomer Brad Litty. Sickler coach Richie Amato has also been dickering for the services of Steve Washington, All-Region 15 star at Westchester Community.

The locals figure to have their hands full with the Mid-Valley Mall as this team has the entire starting five of the Ottawa University team from Kansas, including Don Strong. All New England at Boston University and Tom Strenko, All-Ivy League player from Brown.

Bruce Crotts, a Little-School All American from Ottawa, was the leading scorer in the school's history.

Ray's, owners of a 14-0 record, with one loss coming in exhibition against the Harlem Wizards, doesn't figure to have it very easy either as they face Bob Knight's West Point Coaches' club.

Knight, current coach of the Cadets, played on the national champion Ohio State squad with Jerry Lucas, John Havlick and Larry Siegfried.

Knight will be bringing three of the all-time Army scorers with him including Darryle Kouns, who still has the career scoring mark at the point.

Ray's coached by Jim Massa, will be going with an all-Kingston area lineup, including Bob Bondar, Ron Miller, Ron Chando, Ray Lindhorst, Mike Dee, Tom Tegler, Gary McDonald, Frank Roselli, Harry Pratt and Bob Paton.

Massa-coached teams have played in the Poughkeepsie event more than any other Kingston club now active. The Kingston mentor's record is 5-3 in the post-season event.

The Chevies can expect a slow-down style game from the Pointers, a la Knight's varsity. The team with the best shooting percentage will win this one.

The Pipers have added a couple of "ringers" for this one, including 6-7 Dick O'Neill formerly of Kentucky Western and John Moran, former starting center with New York University. The City League champs also have Rod Aurigemma, a fine outside shooter and John Sileno, Most Valuable Player in this year's addition of Poughkeepsie circuit.

The Chargers will have some old faces and some new ones as Hank Brown, former All-DUSO guard at Poughkeepsie, will be making the trip from North Carolina, with a couple of his teammates.

The big game will be the Pine Plains-Dutchess encounter. Strangely enough, not much is known about either club, other than the fact that both will be "loaded for bear."

George Steuzle, Bombardiers' sponsor-manager, will have Wes Bialosuknia, now playing with the Hartford Caps, York Laresse, current coach of the New York Nets, Bill Telasky, Tom Hemans, and Art Stephenson, all former pro and semi-pro stars.

The gray-haired master is also planning some surprises for area fans opponents as he has lined up three members of the St. John's University starting five, a member of the Harlem Globetrotters, who is rumored to be flying in from Pennsylvania for at least the finals and Calvin Murphy.

Wanted: Factory Power For Gunslinger McQueen

SEBRING, Fla. (UPI)—The next time actor Steve McQueen comes to the defense of the status of Porsche in international racing, he'll likely have the five-liter factory power to match Ferrari-jumping Mario Andretti.

McQueer and co-driver Peter Revson, nosed out by 23.8 seconds by the charging Andretti for the 12-hour Sebring endurance run Sunday, is the choice to drive one of the factory Porsche 917s in the 24 hours of Le Mans in June.

This time, McQueen won't be lugging around an orthopedic, cast-like boot on the clutch foot the star broke in six places in a Nevada motorcycle race two weeks ago.

The Ferrari victory was still in doubt after Andretti hopped into the then third-place car of Ignazio Giunti of Italy and Nino Vaccarella of Sicily, and sped to a 45-second lead over the McQueen-Revson Porsche with Revson at the wheel.

"It felt like I was running out of gas," Andretti recalled. "I switched, put my reserve on, then I thought maybe I was just mistaken and I switched back.

"It cut off completely," the champagne-soaked Andretti laughed after the race.

The reserve carried the Indianapolis 500 winner to the pits for a dash of fuel and he was back on the 5.2 miles circuit of hairpin-bent concrete and asphalt barely ahead of socialite-sportsman Revson.

Andretti outran the year-old race record of 103.363 m.p.h. in the winning Ford GT-40 with an average speed of 107.290 m.p.h. and set a new lap record of 248.

Wilt Pain in Neck To NBA Opponents

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wilt Chamberlain's knee is healing . . . and now he's just a pain in the neck to the opposition.

Los Angeles' super center, recovering from an early season knee operation, played 42 minutes Sunday in his third comeback game and helped the Lakers topple Seattle 121-118 Sunday in the National Basketball Association.

Chamberlain scored 21 points and had 18 rebounds, his best effort in the comeback games.

Boston defeated New York 115-112; Atlanta spilled Detroit 130-126; Chicago walloped Milwaukee 129-115; Philadelphia hammered San Francisco 132-112 and Phoenix got by San Diego 130-129 in Sunday's other NBA action.

In the American Basketball Association, Los Angeles crushed Carolina 106-92; Indiana bettered New York 114-97; Kentucky stopped New Orleans 130-127 in double overtime and Miami rolled past Dallas 160-155.

The Lakers fought off a fourth-quarter rally by Seattle to finish their season two games behind the Western Division-leading Atlanta Hawks.

Johnny Egan, who scored 19 points, helped Chamberlain choke off Seattle's late comeback with critical scoring plays. Bob Rule of Seattle was the game leader with 33 points.

Rookie Jo Jo White scored nine of his 22 points in the final period as Boston came from behind for the win over New York, which closed out its season with four straight losses.

Boston, the defending NBA champions, finished sixth in the Eastern Division and were eliminated from the playoffs for the first time in 20 years.

Baskets by Walt Hazzard and Jim Davis in the final 28 seconds enabled Atlanta to shut off Detroit's late rallies.

Sub Fred Hetzel sparked a second-period rally that helped Philadelphia beat San Francisco. Philadelphia led 31-26 after the first period, but Hetzel scored 14 of his game-high 25 points to open a 13-point lead at halftime.

Chicago used a scoring spurt in the last three minutes to take the victory over Milwaukee. The Bucks chopped the Chicago lead to 110-107 with 3:12 remaining—but six straight points for the Bulls put the game out of reach.

Connie Hawkins scored 31 of his game-high 44 points in the second half—including the winning shot with five seconds to play—to pull Phoenix over San Diego.

In Saturday's games, Cincinnati whipped New York 136-120 and Baltimore turned back San Francisco 127-123.

NBA's First Round Draft Choice Is Key To Maravich Future

NEW YORK (AP) — If Pete Maravich isn't a high draft pick today by the National Basketball Association, it's probably a good indication the NBA thinks the LSU Pistol has reached an accord with the American Basketball Association.

Maravich and his father, LSU Coach Press Maravich, repeatedly denied over the weekend that Pistol Pete has signed—or agreed to terms—with the Carolina Cougars of the ABA.

The ABA's New Orleans Bucs don't think so either. An official of the financially troubled Louisiana franchise says the Bucs are still dickering for Maravich under an ABA agreement that New Orleans can sign him—if he wants to play there. New Orleans would have to compensate Carolina for the loss of Maravich, however.

The ABA conducts the remainder of its draft here today—starting at 10 a.m., EST. The league held the first four rounds earlier behind closed doors but most of the ABA selections have leaked out and the so-called Lively League has already signed four first-round picks—All-Americans Rick Mount of Purdue and Dan Issel of Kentucky, Charlie Scott of North Carolina and Mike Maloy of Davidson.

The NBA, with Detroit picking first, got into action two hours later.

"We feel regrettable that some of these players didn't wait until we had our draft," said Nick Curran, an NBA official. "These players didn't even wait to see what the NBA could offer. In some cases, they might have gotten more."

Detroit was expected to draft Bob Lanier, the St. Bonaventure giant, who was earlier picked by the ABA's New York entry. Lanier, it was reported, has agreed to a $1.5 million offer from the NBA. That's $100,000 more than the deal Lew Alcindor got a year ago for signing with Milwaukee of the NBA.

Alcindor's pact has already been equalled—or perhaps topped—in the signing by the ABA's Kentucky Colonels of All-American Issel, who got an announced $1.4 million, but perhaps more. Kentucky has also signed Mike Pratt of Kentucky and Claude Virden of Murray State.

The Indiana Pacers of the ABA have signed Mount for a reported pact that could ultimately mean a million dollars to the Purdue star over a 40 year (CQ) period. Indiana has also been negotiating with its No. 2 choice, Dennis Awtre of Santa Clara.

Vincennes Wins NJCAA Laurels

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP) — Champion Vincennes, Ind., had most of the height, but it was a pair of hot-shooting little guards who stole the individual show in the National Junior College Basketball Tournament which concluded here Saturday night.

For those major college coaches looking for big men, Vincennes had them — 6-foot-10 Robert McAdoo, 6-9 Roy Simpson and 6-5 Jerry Dunn. The skyscrapers powered the Trailblazers to an 85-67 victory over Moberly, Mo., in the title game.

McAdoo scored 29 points in the championship game, while Dunn was named to the all-tournament team.

Moberly had one of the tournament's two top shooters, however, in Andy Knowles, a 5-10 long-range gunner who scored 104 points in his four tournament games for a 26.0 average. He got 25 in the title game.

The other high-scoring guard in the tourney was Larry Brown, a 6-footer for Northeastern Junior College of Miami, Okla. Brown scored 128 points in his four tournament games for a 32.0 average.

ALBANY GLENS FALLS KINGSTON POUGHKEEPSIE

NEW HALL OF FAMERS—Four Kingston area bowling greats were inducted into the Kingston Bowling Association's Hall of Fame Saturday night in ceremonies at the Walnut Grove. The new group (L-R) Larry Weishaupt, Frank (Buster) Ferraro, Larry Petersen Jr. and Dick Howard. The late John Sangi, top bowler and proprietor of Sangi's Bowlero, was honored posthumously. Howard Tupper, the well known voice of TV Station WRGB (Channel 6) Schenectady, who has been emcee of the station's TV Bowling Time since the program started in 1958, was the principal speaker. He recalled that Bustor Ferraro got the series off to a sensational start with three 700 triples in six weeks. The awards were presented by Harold Stewart, a past president of the KBA. Albert O. Sonnenberg, another ex-president, gave the welcome. Charles J. Tiano, Freeman Sports Editor, was the toastmaster. (Freeman photo by Kruh).

Oh, Those Bases on Balls!

(By Associated Press)

In the beginning, Abner Doubleday or, if you prefer, Alexander Cartwright, decided that in their game of baseball, four balls out of the strike zone would allow the batter to take first base.

It was to be known as a base on balls, a walk, a free ticket and a few other things by managers who've suffered with them through the years.

Bill Rigney, a manager who has done his share of suffering, sat quietly by Sunday watching his Minnesota staff issue 15 . . . that is 15 . . . walks against Boston. The Red Sox didn't need much more to beat the Twins 10-7.

Rigney, who developed a king-sized ulcer in earlier managerial stints at San Francisco and California, was simply sputtering after the Twins' 14th exhibition loss as against only one victory.

"I've never been in a training camp where so many have walked," said Rigney. "It's disgraceful, absolutely disgraceful."

Louis Tiant issued seven of the walks and Dick Woodson five. Four of Woodson's came consecutively in the seventh when the Red Sox rallied for four runs to break a 6-6 tie. Gerry Moses had a double and homer and George Scott a double and triple for Boston. Tony Oliva and Leo Cardenas homered for the Twins.

Slugger Jimmy Wynn ended his long holdout, agreeing to a $57,000 contract with Houston but the Astros looked pretty good without him Sunday, beating the Montreal Expos 4-3.

Tommy Davis' ninth inning homer won it and Joe Pepitone and pinch hitter Bob Watson also connected for the Astros. Rusty Staub connected for the Expos.

Willie Crawford hammered a homer and a three-run double, leading Los Angeles to an 11-7 victory over Baltimore with Oriole pitchers tagged for 11 hits, seven for extra bases. Steve Garvey homered and Bill Grabarkewicz had a double and triple for the Dodgers while Paul Blair delivered a homer and triple and Bob Grich three singles for the Orioles.

Joe Torre, shackled by a spring slump which had him batting 103, snapped out of it with two singles to help St. Louis past Philadelphia 8-4. His fifth inning single broke a tie and then Vic Davalillo cracked a three-run homer in the eighth.

Fritz Peterson pitched seven innings, allowing only a two-run homer by rookie Elliot Maddox, as the New York Yankees trimmed Detroit 5-3. Peterson singled in a run in the sixth and Jerry Kenney homered for the Yanks.

Dock Ellis worked seven innings and Chuck Hartenstein and Gene Garber completed the shutout as Pittsburgh blanked Cincinnati 4-0 on a five-hitter. Willie Stargell homered for the Pirates.

Bobby Knoop cracked a single, double and homer, driving in four runs and leading the Chicago White Sox to an 8-3 victory over Kansas City. John Matias and Walt Williams also homered for the Sox.

Bob Tillman doubled in the tying runs and then scored Atlanta's go-ahead run in the seventh inning as the Braves rallied to beat Washington 7-3. Orlando Cepeda cracked a three-run homer for Atlanta.

San Francisco touring Japan, dropped its second straight with the Lotte Crions beating the Giants 4-3. Willie McCovey had a two-run homer for the Giants.

In other games, Bert Campaneris socked his second homer in as many days and Oakland Whipped California 7-1. Vada Pinson homered for Cleveland and the Indians trimmed Seattle 4-3, and the San Diego Padres edged the Chicago Cubs 5-4.

Will It Help or Hurt?

Experience Factor Favors Don January

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—Don January has the experience edge over Dale Douglass for their playoff battle this afternoon; but he isn't sure whether that will be a help or a hinderance.

"A lot of people recall that I won the 1967 PGA championship in a playoff, but they seem to forget that I came out on the short end in seven other playoffs," said the wirey, 40-year-old Texan after tying Douglass for the lead in the final regular round of the $100,000 Greater Jacksonville Open Sunday.

"With my track record, I probably should have gotten the job done in 72 holes."

Douglass, seeking his fourth tournament victory in 11 months, said he "doesn't have any idea" how he'll play today's round.

"I never played in an 18-hole playoff before," the stringy 34-year-old Oklahoman said. "In fact, my only playoff experience was a sudden death in the 1968 Sahara—and I lost that to Chi Chi Rodriguez.

"I'll have to stay up awhile tonight (Sunday night) and ponder on it."

January, three strokes behind the then-leading Douglass at the start of Sunday's play over the 6,943-yard Hidden Hills Country Club course, tied the course record with a 6-under-par 66. Douglass matched January's 72-hole total of 9-under-par 279 with a closing 69.

Today's playoff begins at 1:45 p.m. EST with the final hour to be nationally televised (ABC). The winner gets $20,000 and the loser $11,400 plus each will receive $5,000 from the television proceeds and share equally in half of today's gate receipts.

"It's likely that today's winner will collect in excess of $35,000," a tournament official said.

England's Tony Jacklin, the 1968 champion here, shot a 67 Sunday to finish two strokes off the pace at 281, worth $7,100.

"I blew it on the first two holes," Jacklin complained. Tony bogeyed both—three—putting the first and driving into the trees on the second. But he birdied six of his last 10 holes.

Dave Stockton was fourth with 69-282 and Jack Nicklaus and Dan Sikes were tied for fifth at 283 Nicklaus, who shot a 70 Sunday, was playing in only his second tournament in seven weeks. Sikes, who had a closing 71, represents Hidden Hills on tour.

Arnold Palmer, who didn't even earn gas money for his jet airplane with the $600 he got for his 291, said "there was some lousy golf played here this week. It was the greens. They were extremely hard to read and exceptionally hard. The ball really bounced in there."

State Soccer Squad Takes Indoor Title

By JIM MASSA

ALBANY New Paltz State University's No. 1 soccer team won four straight games to win the double elimination indoor Soccer Tournament at Albany State University.

The Hawks defeated the RPI No. 1 team in the final game 4-2 for the championship. En route to the final game with RPI, New Paltz dumped Plattsburgh No. 2 (2-0), RPI No. 1 (2-1) and Plattsburgh No. 1 (3-2).

"All the boys played superbly," said coach Bob Durkin of the Hawks. "When you beat a team like RPI twice you've got to get maximum performance form everyone and we did. We have lost only three boys from last years squad and with the addition of Tsegaye Taye we will be as good as any team in the country."

Hippy Unanimous MVP

Bob Hippy, the Hawks All-American, was the unanimous choice as the most valuable player in the tournament. Three other Hawks placed on the all-tourney team Jame Lipman at goalie, David Iyasere and from the Hawks No. 2 team, Mike Lipowksi.

Each school entered two teams. The teams were made up of a goalie and five field players and could carry four reserves. Since the event was held indoors, the goal was cut to half the normal width, (12 feet) and the height remained at seven feet.

The Hawks 3-2, win over the No. 1 Plattsburgh team came on a goal by Hippy with 30 seconds left to play. "It was a high wide and handsome shot," described Durkin.

In the final game against RPI No. 1 team reserve, Taye scored two of the four goals, one of them being the third for the Hawks in the game.

The Hawks No. 2 team lost its first game of the double elimination event to Albany State's No. 1 team. Albany won on corner kicks 3-2, since the score was tied at 0-0 when time ran out. The second defeat came against the RPI No. 2 team by the score of 1-0.

The four schools participating in the tournament were Albany State, Plattsburgh, RPI and New Paltz.

"This accomplishment will go a long way in getting the boys up for the coming season," said Durkin. "With the talent we have this year and the attitude of the team personnel it looks to be a very bright season for us at New Paltz."

Rosinski and Kolano Pace Rider Keglers to 3rd Place

TRENTON, N.J.—Anchored by Mike Rosinski of Kingston, Rider College bowlers placed third in the Mid-Atlantic College Bowling Tournament at Rider this weekend.

West Virginia led the 30-team field, with Adelphi of New York second, Rider third, Drexel placed fourth and Gettysburgh College was fifth.

Rosinski, who averaged 191 for 12 games, paced Rider to first place in the first qualifying round, when all but 10 teams were dropped. A second elimination reduced the field to six teams, of which five received trophies.

Lou Kolano, former Ulster County Community College star, averaged 180 for the Rider team.

Rosinski, high average kegler with 187 during the regular Rider season, defeated five opponents and tied another in six head-to-head matches.

Both Kingston bowlers performed superbly for Rider College in the regular season, winning a majority of their singles matches. Kolano compiled a 199 average in his sophomore year at Ulster Community.

A graduate of Kingston High, Rosinski was a well known junior bowler in Kingston and at the age of 13 teamed with his father, Barney Rosinski,, to capture first place in the gross doubles division of the 1965 Rip Van Winkle Classic Tournament.

Orr Gives Esposito Lesson in Records

By United Press International

When it comes to setting records, Tony Esposito can take a lesson from Bobby Orr.

Esposito, the rookie goalie for the Chicago Black Hawks, equalled the modern one-season National Hockey League record for shutouts Sunday night when he posted his 13th whitewash as the Hawks beat the St. Louis Blues, 1-0.

But, while Esposito was "only" tying a record, Orr was setting his fourth of the season as the Boston Bruins blanked the Minnesota North Stars, 5-0. Orr's latest entry in the record book will show him as scoring more assists in one season than any other player.

Esposito also broke the Hawks' team record of 12 shutouts set by Charlie Gardiner. A third-period power play goal by Doug Mohns proved Chicago's only successful offensive effort but it was enough, thanks to Esposito, to keep the Hawks only one point behind first-place Boston in the Eastern Division.

Orr collected two goals and two assists in leading the Bruins to their win over Minnesota. The two assists gave Orr 78 for the season, snapping teammate Phil Esposito's (Tony's brother) one-year-old mark of 77. Orr, earlier this season, also set records for most goals, assists and points in one season for a defenseman.

Elsewhere in the NHL, Montreal beat Pittsburgh, 5-4; Toronto downed New York, 5-2, and Philadelphia edged Oakland, 3-2.

The Canadiens, playing before record home crowd of 18,454, moved into a tie with Detroit for third place in the East, three points behind Chicago and two ahead of New York. Mickey Redmond scored his 27th goal and helped set up another to lead Montreal which is battling to make the Stanley Cup playoffs for the 22nd consecutive season.

The Rangers' loss, coming after they held a 2-1 lead midway through the final period, dropped them into fifth place as they have won only once in their last 12 games. Paul Henderson and Ron Ellis scored two goals each for the Maple Leafs.

Philadelphia used its triumph over Oakland to move past Pittsburgh into second place in the West while the Seals blew a chance to move ahead of Minnesota and into fourth. Oakland still trails the North Stars by one point in the battle for the fourth and final playoff spot.

Spartan Pools, Blue Gardenias Annex Openers

KINGSTON

Spartan Pools, undefeated regular season champions in the Over-30 Basketball League, trounced Boyle's A.C., 84-60, in the opener of the Shaughnessy playoffs. Blue Gardenia outlasted Esposito's undermanned squad, 61-50, in the other bracket.

Spartans and Blue Gardenia meet in the playoff finals April 5 at 8 p.m. in the municipal auditorium. The losers play in the consolation at 7 p.m.

Despite a tight, five-man lineup, Spartans outclassed Boyle's 40-21 in the second half and picked up most of their margin with a 20-4 edge from the free throw line.

Ron Scheffel drilled 27 points and Jim Massa had 18 as all Spartans finished in double figures. Len Beck potted 21 and Jim Ferraro 16 for Boyle's.

Esposito's led Gardenia by two points with three one-half minutes left, despite the fact they played 13 minutes of the second half with only four players after Joe Tremper fouled out.

Al Long of Esposito's led with 21 points. Tandy Taylor rimmed 14 and John Burris has 13 for Blue Gardenia.

Immaculate Cagers Cop Coleman Tourney

KINGSTON

Immaculate Conception of Kingston defeated another Colonial City club, St. Peter's, 56-39, to win the championship of the John A. Coleman Spring Basketball Tournament. In the consolation round, Regina Coeli of Hyde Park dumped Poughkeepsie's Mount Carmel, 60-58.

The three-day affair at the Coleman gym, ended last night.

Bruce Staler of Immaculate Conception, was named Most Valuable Player for the tourney. He hit 17 points in the final game to tie for the game's scoring honors with Rick Sorenson.

Joining Staler on the All-Star team from Immaculate Conception were Dan Reinhard and Gary Bellows. Others selected were: James LaTorre, Don Fisher, Mike Dubill, St. Peter's: Denny McGowan, Don Meyer, Mount Carmel: Tom Kihlimere, Roger Turek, Regina Coeli.

In semi-final games Saturday, The champs, paced by Reinhard's 17 points, dropped Regina Coeli, 66-47. While Brian La Torre fired in 30 markers to lead St. Peter's to a 59-51 victory over Mount Carmel.

In the Sunday final, LaTorre was held to 14 markers as the champs played a strong defense. Bellows added 10 points to go with Staler and Sorenson's totals.

The event was sponsored by the John A. Coleman Varsity Club.

The Results:

Immaculate Conception (56) — Reinhard 6, Sorenson 17, Saehloff 2, Staler 17, Tucker 4, Bellows 10; St. Peter's (39) — LaTorre 14, Prockup 4, Dubill 4, Beverly 2, Gallagher 2, Kearney 4, Fisher 9.

Regina Coeli (60) — Kihlimere 16, Herman 0, Turek 15, Biskup 12, Gyseck 4, Scalzi 13; Mt. Carmel (58) — McGowan 12, Meyer 20, DeFraia 17, Burger 2, DeMichel 6, Calenti 2.

Walt Frazier Camp Adds Perry to Staff

KINGSTON

Mike Perry, highly successful basketball coach and newly appointed athletic director at Ulster County Community College, has been named to the staff of the Walt Frazier Basketball Camp to be staged this summer at Camp Seneca in the Berkshires at Paw'ing.

The camp will be staged for boys 11 to 18 and will run Aug. 24-29. If interest is high enough and the number of applications warrants it, a second week, Aug. 31 to Sept. 5 will be held.

Many outstanding pros and coaches will be on hand to lecture during the clinic. Joining Frazier, from the New York Knicks, will be Dick Barnett and Dave Stallworth, plus Coach Red Holzman, who will make a guest appearance.

Other pros will be Tom Van Arsdale, Cincinnati Royals, Dick Van Arsdale, Phoenix Suns and Mike Davis of the Baltimore Bullets.

Coaches, including Perry, will be Jim Colclough, assistant basketball coach, Southampton College, who is also Camp Director and former varsity coach at Arlinton High; Dick Harter, University of Penn.; Jack Powers, Manhattan College; Frank Mulzoff, assistant coach, St. John's University; George Matola, Farmingdale; Ken Ralph assistant coach, Westfield State College. Other outstanding pros and coaches will be added at a later date.

Perry's UCCC team won their third straight Mid-Hudson Conference title and then lost in the second round of the Region 15 tournament. UCCC had been rated number 11 in national junior college polls and finished the season as number 15.

"I am very excited about joining Walt Frazier and his staff," said Perry. "It is a new endeavor for Walt and he has certainly lined up an excellent staff to assist him. Jim Colclough has done an excellent job in preparing for the camp and attaining top names among the pros to be guest lecturers."

"Any area boys interested in attending the camp can contact me for all the particulars at the Ulster campus," he concluded.

Record

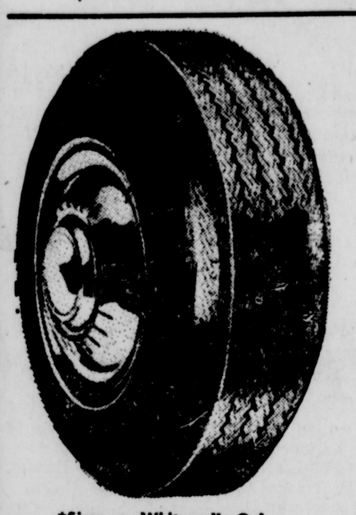

CHENEY, Wash. (UPI)—Weight man John Van Reenen was the star as Washington State won 11 of 15 events in Saturday's Washington College Relays.

He set marks with a shotput toss of 59-9 and a discus heave of 191-8.

UOP Wins, 84-70

DAVIS (UPI)—UC Davis defeated UOP 84-70 Saturday in a duel track meet. UOP's Gary Lewis set meet records when he ran the high hurdles in 14.7 seconds and the intermediate hurdles in 53.8 seconds.

Could Have Won Either—McGuire

NEW YORK (UPI)—"I felt we could have won either the NCAA or the NIT," outspoken Al McGuire declared. He was taking a trophy home from New York this weekend, but you'll never convince him that he shouldn't have been taking home a trophy from College Park, Md.

McGuire's smooth Marquette team destroyed St. John's, McGuire's alma-mater, 65-53 Saturday to win the 33rd National Invitation Tournament and wind up the season with a 26-3 mark. It was an impressive win that bolstered McGuire's contention that his team is much better than it is being given credit for.

Despite the success, the 1969-70 season has ranked McGuire because he feels his warriors, ranked 10th in the country, were underrated this year.

McGuire had four starters returning from last year's club which lost to Purdue 75-73 in an overtime thriller in last year's NCAA Mideast Regional final game. Purdue went on to the NCAA final before losing to UCLA.

The Marquette coach figured that background and a 22-3 mark during the regular season entitled the Warriors to a return to the NCAA Mideast regional. But the NCAA picked Jacksonville, which has a pair of seven-footers, and Notre Dame, which beat Marquette by a point in double overtime in the regular season, for the Mideast regional and tried to shift Marquette to the Midwest regional, which would have mean a trip to Texas for the Warriors.

"I just didn't think we should have to go to Texas," McGuire claimed. "The NCAA thinks big teams are better but the bigger the opponent, the better we play."

Of course, no one will ever know how far Marquette could have gone in the NCAA, but the Warriors certainly proved in the NIT that a lack of height doesn't bother them. Marquette doesn' have a player over 6-6, but the club has almost perfect balance and plays the tenacious defense that always has been McGuire's trademark.

"It's the best defensive club I've ever played against," St. John's coach Lou Carnesecca said after coaching his final college game before joining the New York Nets next year. But Carnesecca was still proud of his club's performance in its farewell because, "the kids didn't die out there."

St. John's fell behind 13-2 and 28-12 and trailed 35-25 at halftime and 53-39 with eight minutes left in the game but ralllied to narrow the deficit to five points, 54-49, with four minutes left. A long jumper by Jeff Sewell, who was the high scorer with 22 points, started Marquette rolling again.

It's an indication of Marquette's balance that the club had a different leading scorer in each of the four NIT games. Dean Meminger, a six-foot guard, is the club's most gifted player, does most of the ball-handling and won the tourney's most valuable player award. Meminger also likes to drive inside while the other guard, Sewell, is the club's most dangerous outside threat.

Ric Cobb, 6-5, Joe Thomas, 6-6, and Gary Brell, 6-6, form a mobile front line. They get the rebounds and are also an integral part of the Marquette press. Marquette forced St. John's into five turnovers in the first five minutes with Brell stealing the ball from Joe DePre and going in for a layup for one of the baskets.

DePre was St. John's leading scorer, but he was held to five free throws in the game and fouled out early as Marquette held him in check. "We play the toughest defense in the country," McGuire said, "we tired a bit at the end but a lot of people don't realize how physically tolling our defense is. Our defense is really an offense."

With Cobb, Thomas and Sewell all graduating, McGuire doesn't expect to have a "tournament team" next year even though he was a 6-11 kid. Jim Chones, coming up from the freshman team who's, "the first big kid I've ever had." He added, "I'm not sure what I'll do with him, in my offense the center never touches the ball unless he gets a rebound."

In the consolation game, Army completed a 22-6 season with a 75-68 victory over LSU, which was playing without injured Pete Maravich. Jim Oexly paced the defense-minded Cadets with 28 points.

Maravich had a frustrating end to his college career in the NIT as he was held to 77 points in three games and limited to just 20 by both Georgetown and Marquette.

But Pete will have plenty of time to forget the NIT performance as he considers his bids from the pros. Despite the rumors that he's already sewed up by the Carolina Cougars, Pete insists he hasn't made up his mind. And both he and his father, LSU coach Press Maravich, insisted they won't be part of a package deal —even one which would have them going to different teams.

Maravich finished with 3,667 points in his career but McGuire, outspoken to the end, had the last word as usual. "I'll take my guy dean (Meminger) over Maravich up in Harlem anytime."

UCLA Proved Its Point: Just as Good Without Lew

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Steve Patterson says UCLA wanted to prove it had a great team this season without Lew Alcindor. And he thinks the Bruins made their point.

"I think we established ourselves as No. 1," he said after UCLA defeated Jacksonville 80—69 Saturday. "We proved we were five guys who could play together."

Patterson, a 6-foot-9 junior from Santa Maria, Calif., said the Bruins have felt the pressure of playing in the shadow of 7-foot-2 Alcindor, who dominated college basketball from 1966-69 and led UCLA to three consecutive titles.

"It worked on the fellows, said Patterson, who played behind Alcindor, the past two seasons.

"You know, you come into a city to play and the newspaper headlines say: 'Alcindor - less UCLA.' When you see that every place you go, it works on you."

Coach John Wooden told newsmen all week long he did not think he had to prove himself over again without Alcindor, rumors to the contrary.

"If I had not won before having Lewis," he repeated often, to what they are saying. But I didn't think I had to prove anything."

Wooden has had 22 consecutive winning seasons at UCLA and won the national championship in 1964 and 1965, missing out only in 1966, before taking the next four.

The Bruins coach told newsmen he believed he had five teams that should have won the national championship but did not.

Wooden also believes he will have an outstanding team next year since he loses only senior guard John Vallely. It is understood he has two equally talented young guards waiting in the wings to take Vallely's place.

Returning next season will be the tournament's most valuable player-6-8 Sidney Wicks of whom Wooden said: "I don't know of any forward in the country I'd trade for him."

Curtis Rowe, a 6-6 forward who made the all-tournament team along with Wicks and Vallely, Patterson and sophomore Henry Bibby, a 6-1 outside shooting guard, also will be back.

Wooden told newsmen the key to UCLA's latest national title was the change on defense he made in an effort to stop Jacksonville's 7-2 Artis Gilmore after the Dolphins jumped to an early lead.

The Bruins coach said it was his plan to play Wicks in front of Gilmore but have his guards attack the ball handlers and prevent them from getting the ball to the giant center. It didn't work.

Wicks said the Dolphins beat him by lobbing the ball over his head and set Gilmore up for a couple of easy layups.

"I couldn't move him anyway," said Wicks. "But then Coach Wooden moved me behind him and Steve Patterson in front of him and we sort of pinched him."

Gilmore made seven field goals during the first 15 minutes but then went the next 16 minutes without a basket. He ended the game with 19 points.

Wicks said Alcindor had a lot to do with the way he handled Gilmore, outrebounding him 18-16 and blocking five of his shots.

"I played Lew a good bit in practice last year and he scored on me anytime he wanted to," he said. "I was a little worried because he (Gilmore) is even taller."

Wicks said he tried to maneuver Gilmore so that the taller Dolphin received the ball 6 to 7 feet from the basket. Then he would back away from him.

"Those tall guys can't dribble that well, so he would have to come to me in an awkward way," he said. "Then when he went up for his shot, I could time it better and try to get a hand on it."

Patterson said he thought Gilmore was tough but is no Alcindor.

"Let me put it this way," he said. "Sidney blocked some of his shots, and I've never seen him block even one of Alcindor's shots in practice."

St. Mary's Fives Extend Skeins

POUGHKEEPSIE

St. Mary's tyro and junior varsity tyro teams continued their winning ways over the weekend in the Poughkeepsie Jewish Center Invitational Tournament. The tyros won their fourth straight in that event, 39-17, over St. Martin DePorres of Poughkeepsie. The JVs took their third in a row, 46-34, over Poughkeepsie's St. Mary's club.

The tyros also took third place in the Father Mooney Memorial Tournament in Mahopac, beating St. James of Carmel, 24-22.

Kevin McGrane was high man for the tyros in the St. Martin's tilt, with 11 points, while Tommy Caruso hit 10. Caruso then paced the Kingston entry in Mahopac with 13 markers.

Gary Brooks hit for 12 and Mike Kiernan 10 as the JVs romped over Poughkeepsie in the JCC event.

The results: St. Mary's Tyros (39) — McGrane 11, Caruso 10, Barten 6, Berardi 6, Vertetis 1, Belcastro 2, Vertetis 1, Kiernan 1; St. Martin's (17) — Sarubbi 6, Rignes 5, Keller 3, Daley 2, Kost 1.

St. Mary's JVs (46) — Kiernan 10, Terpening 6, Timbrouck 2, Coughlin 2, McClosky 4, Brooks 12, Mahoney 8, Scheffel 2; Poughkeepsie (34) — Viani 21, Harris 6, Calau 2, Capone 1, Dingee 4.

St. Mary's Tyros (24) — Caruso 13, Vertetis 0, Barten 11, Riedell 0, Kiernan 0; St. James (22) — Brogan 2, Crowley 10, Cassidy 6, O'Brien 2, Muloney 2.

Meeting Set At Auditorium

KINGSTON

The Kingston Recreation Commission's Slow Pitch Softball League will hold it's organization meeting on Sunday afternoon, April 12, at 2 p.m. in the Municipal Auditorium.

Any manager intending to enter a team in this year's league is urged to attend this meeting as the committee of Ron Scheffel, Larry Kithcart and Edwin Bahl are anxious to get an earlier May start than last year, due to anticipated expansion of the circuit.

Two Will Face Charges for Britts Theft

KINGSTON

A 45-year-old woman and a juvenile were accused Saturday afternoon by a security officer at Britts Store in the Kingston Shopping Plaza of conspiring to steal merchandise from the establishment.

Mrs. Mary C. Manshaw of P. O. Box 85, Eddyville, was scheduled to appear in City Court to face a charge of conspiracy. The girl was referred to the Juvenile Aid Bureau for an appearance in Family Court.

According to a security officer, the woman allegedly held a dress while the girl allegedly took a bathing suit valued at $18 and concealed it in a paper bag. The merchandise was recovered.

Security officers at the store also referred a 10-year-old boy to the Juvenile Aid Bureau after he was accused of stealing 79 cents worth of fishing lures.

Search Reveals Drug Evidence; Two Are Held

WOODSTOCK

Police armed with a search warrant went to an apartment on Mead Mountain Road in this township Saturday afternoon, and arrested 18-year-old Peter Georghan and 22-year-old Carol Ann Brookshire on charges of criminal possession of dangerous drugs.

Chief William E. Waterous, who made the arrests with Officers Charles Wolven and Allen Van Wagenen, said police went to the apartment where the defendants were staying to investigate another case.

The two were taken into custody after police found two ounces of marijuana, according to Waterous.

Georghan was charged with criminal possession of dangerous drugs, third degree, a Class C felony. The woman was booked for criminal possession of dangerous drugs sixth degree.

Both defendants were taken before Town Justice James R. Myers who committed the accused and adjourned hearing until Wednesday night.

Renewal Extended

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The New York State Department of Motor Vehicles announced Sunday that it would extend the renewal period for automobile registrations and operators licenses due to expire at the end of March.

The action was taken, a department spokesman said, as a result of the mail tie-up.

Also included in the extension were learners' permits and temporary registrations which expired on March 18.

The new expiration date for all March licenses is April 14.

Renewal Extended

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The New York State Department of Motor Vehicles announced Sunday that it would extend the renewal period for automobile registrations and operators licenses due to expire at the end of March.

The action was taken, a department spokesman said, as a result of the mail tie-up.

Also included in the extension were learners' permits and temporary registrations which expired on March 18.

The new expiration date for all March licenses is April 14.

EMPLOYMENT

ATTENTION JOB APPLICANTS
The Daily Freeman does not knowingly accept Help Wanted ads from employers covered by the Fair Labor Standards Act if they offer less than the legal minimum wage or fail to pay at least time and one-half for overtime hours. The minimum wage for employment covered by the FLSA prior to the 1966 Amendments is $1.60 an hour with overtime pay required after 40 hours a week. Jobs covered as a result of the 1966 Amendments require $1.30 an hour minimum with overtime pay required after 40 hours a week. For specific information contact the Wage and Hour Office of the U. S. Department of Labor, 331 Gerard Ave., Bronx, N. Y. 10452, WYandotte 2-1235.
IMPORTANT NOTICE: The New York State Law against Discrimination and the Federal Civil Rights Act of 1964 prohibit discrimination in employment because of sex unless based on a bona fide occupational qualification. Help Wanted and Situation Wanted advertisements are arranged in columns captioned "Male" and "Female" for the convenience of readers and are not intended as an unlawful limitation or discrimination based on sex.

Dear Abby

Speaks on Fidelity

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: The women in our small club were having a frank discussion about husbands stepping out, and I made the statement that I could forgive my husband if I caught him stepping out on me (I mean a one-night stand, not a serious affair of any duration), but I wouldn't put up with his spending money on another woman when there were things his family needed.

They all thought I was some kind of nut. Please don't misunderstand, Abby. I wouldn't encourage my husband to step out on me, but as long as I get my share of affection at home, I don't see why I should throw him out if he has a little extra fun at no expense to his family. But with money, it's a different story. Just let him deprive me or the children of anything money can buy because he spent it on another woman, and I'd lock him out. How do you feel about this, Abby?

MARGE

DEAR MARGE: For the first 50 years I'd demand 100 per cent fidelity. After that, I'd be a little more generous.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have some close friends. We have agreed to be the guardians for their children in case something happens to them, and they shall do the same for ours.

These people are dedicated to a religious movement in which teams of lay people spend the week-end in a church, leading prayer groups and church services.

We have a lot of respect and admiration for their devotion to their religion, but do not wish to participate.

So far, we have always been able to come up with a valid excuse for not accepting their invitations to go to these church meetings, but we fear the day when we've run out of excuses, and there will be a showdown.

How can we get out of going and still maintain our friendship with these people?

KENTUCKIANS

DEAR KENTUCKIANS: Don't wait for a showdown. Tell your friends that you do not care to participate in their religious activities. If you are sufficiently "close" for a reciprocal guardianship agreement, it seems to me you should be able to speak candidly without fear of damaging your friendship.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: When I was 13 years old, two other girls and I were caught taking a few cheap items from the cosmetic counter of a department store. They took us to the manager's office and we had to give them our names and addresses. We were told that they were going to call our parents, but fortunately, they never did.

Of course we gave back everything we had taken, and we promised that we would never set foot in that store again, and I know, I never did. We also promised we'd never steal another thing. I kept that promise.

Now I am 22 years old and in filling out a job application, I understand the question "Have you ever been arrested" is asked. If I come across it, how should I answer?

SANTA ANA

DEAR SANTA ANA: Say NO. You were only caught and warned. That is not the same as being "arrested."

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

LONG ENOUGH: (Q.) I haven't been going with this girl long, but I've been going with her long enough to find out something. I don't love her enough. She is ugly and fat. How can I tell her I want to break up without hurting her feelings?—Stuck in Florida

(A.) You can't. But you will be kinder if you tell her quickly instead of putting it off.

Next time be more careful before you settle down to going steadily with one girl. That way you're less likely to have to hurt her.

EX-DRINKER: (Q.) This boy I go steady with used to drink. He doesn't now. He is really nice. My parents would really like him if they knew him the way he is now.

They don't know I'm going with him. How can I tell them I am and that he doesn't drink any more?—In Love With a Nice Boy in Pennsylvania.

(A.) The best way to tell your parents is honestly and openly and fully. When you tell them, ask them to give him a chance, ask them to invite him over.

If he has changed as much as you say he has, they can see for themselves.

Horoscope By SYDNEY OMARR

It's In The Stars

("The wise man controls his destiny . . . astrology points the way.")

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY MARCH 24, 1970

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You gain insight. You finish one phase of activity — get ready for new beginnings. Money involving others comes up for discussion. Look ahead. Base decision on future possibilities.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20): Accent on marriage, business partnership. Joint efforts likely to succeed. Permit one close to you to have spotlight. Formulate and develop ideas. Stress creative approach.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Be moderate. Maintain balance. Don't feel you are forced to make immediate decision. Weigh various factors. Control tendency to act purely on impulse.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Good lunar aspect today coincides with love, romance, affection given and returned. Leave details to others. Your view should encompass large scope.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Spotlight on home, property, position of security. Don't give up something for nothing. Your bargaining position is stronger than you might imagine. Realize this; respond accordingly.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Be versatile. Means have alternate methods at hand. Deal graciously with relatives. Be ready for changes — possible journey. Ride with tide of surprise element.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Emphasis on finances, personal possessions. Purchase of item designed to make living more comfortable is favored. Family member shows pleasure — and this makes you happy.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Cycle is high; take initiative. Your personality, appearance draw favorable comment. Members of opposite sex are drawn to you. Realize that if you do your best, perfection is not necessary.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Work behind the scenes. Don't be too anxious to tell all you know. Hold something in reserve. Backing you require appears to be forthcoming.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Emphasis on fulfillment of hopes, desires. You may think you have lost something. But it is replaced by valuable friendship. Keep the faith.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Accent on how you achieve goals. New approach is best one. Stress independence, originality. LEO individual has some ideas which would prove beneficial. Don't be afraid to ask.

PISCES (Feb. 19 - March 20): Good lunar aspect today coincides with opportunity for solid future plans. Look ahead. Break through maze of red tape. Good for writing, publicity, advertising.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you have sense of drama which is usually underplayed. You find many important events seem to be occurring almost one on top of the other. Business advancement indicated — and, if single, marriage is also part of the picture.

Cynthia Lowry

Harry, Lena and Holbrook

NEW YORK (AP) — A sprinkling of special programs seasoned the network schedules over the week-end, with two particularly worthy of comment.

The most fun for the viewer was the special with two big talents, Harry Belafonte and Lena Horne, complementing each other. Most interesting was a two-hour film feature on air pollution.

The Belafonte-Horne collaboration, an ABC hour Sunday night, was strictly a two-performer show, handled on a square stage of many levels and surrounded on three sides by an audience.

The stars more or less took turns singing, occasionally working together. With the exception of Miss Horne's "I Want To Be Happy," none of the numbers were familiar. There were ghetto songs, city-life songs, nostalgia songs, love songs, even a lullaby. Almost all of them more interesting for their content and presentation than for their tunes.

"A clear and present danger," in NBC's "World Premiere" series, tackled air pollution as an element of a dramatic show.

It was an interesting attempt, but came a cropper because the dramatist, like others worried about our environment, could come up with no satisfactory solution and because pollution is so much bigger than the personal conflict on which the story was hung.

Hal Holbrook played a senator's son with his own political ambitions who, upon visiting an industrial city, finds an old friend has died of emphysema, with the smoke and gas filled air of the community a contributing factor.

This kicks him off on a one-man crusade to do something about the city air.

But at the end, the concerned hero can only say: "I refuse to believe that there is no solution."

NBC apparently thinks so highly of the idea of a fearless, idealistic politician that Holbrook will continue his role as one segment of "The Bold Ones" next season.

Also continued will be segments about doctors and lawyers. The portion of the trilogy involving a district attorney and a police official, co-starring Hari Rhodes and Leslie Nielsen, will be dropped.

The National Educational Network starts tonight four consecutive programs showing the trial last year of a member of the Black Panthers on a charge of resisting arrest.

The trial was held in Denver, Colo., where cameras are permitted in courtrooms. The series starts with the jury selection and ends four programs later with the verdict. It is, NET believes, the first TV report of a legal proceeding.

Bridge

Automatic Play Hints Expertise

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Oswald: "You started playing bridge while I was in Korea in 1950 and 1951 and had become a pretty good player when I got back."

Jim: "I still had a lot to learn then. In fact, I still do."

Oswald: "So do I, but I have probably reached the age where I can't improve my game. You and the game will keep on getting better for a long time. Do you remember this hand?

Jim: "I certainly do. I was South and we were playing together for just about the first time. When you passed to West's six-heart bid, I realized that you wanted me to bid six if I could handle the second round of hearts."

Oswald: "The hand is interesting for something else. You ruffed the second heart and played out your ace of spades. West followed and you called for the 10 of spades from dummy. Right then and there I knew that you had already become a good bridge player."

Jim: "The play was essential but it was also automatic."

Oswald: "That's the point exactly. It is automatic for you now, as it would be for any careful top player, but most players simply play the lowest card when following suit."

Jim: "My reason wasn't hard to find. I knew that if anyone held four trumps it would be East. When I continued with a trump to the king, West showed out. Now I was able to lead the six-spot and pick up East's jack-eight."

Oswald: "If you had left the 10 in dummy, it would have held the third trump trick. You would have had to attack clubs while East still held a trump. He would ruff the second club and you would have chucked the slam."

THE PEACE DELEGATION — A Pathet Lao representative, Lt. Col. Pradit Thiengtham (C) walks to Prime Minister Souvanna Phouma's residence Sunday to deliver letters from Pathet Lao leader Prince Souphanouvong. Souvanna Phouma is said to be studying the letters, which, according to Pathet Lao leaders, say that the Communists are willing to talk peace if U. S. bombing in Laos is halted. (UPI RADIOphoto).

Terrorist Kills 14 Viet Civilians

SAIGON (UPI)—A woman terrorist threw a grenade into a Buddhist pagoda outside Saigon Sunday night, killing 14 Vietnamese civilians and wounding 20 others, all women and children, military spokesmen said today.

Another terrorist grenade blew up in a shop near a U.S. military enlisted quarters in Saigon. One American soldier and one Vietnamese civilian were wounded.

Military spokesmen said the first grenade went off in a pagoda at Hoc Mon district town seven miles northwest of Saigon. Some of the wounded were carried to Saigon hospitals by helicopter.

The second was thrown into a shop near the American Austin bachelor enlisted men's quarters in Saigon. The terrorist escaped as did the one at Hoc Mon.

Guerrillas killed two South Vietnamese civilians and three government militiamen Sunday night in shelling Tri Ton district town with four rounds of 82mm mortar fire. The town is 110 miles west-southwest of Siagon. Eleven civilians were wounded.

Another guerrilla attack sent 10 rounds of 82mm mortar fire into a police station a half mile southwest of the provincial capital of Xuan Loc, 37 miles east-northeast of Saigon. One policeman and 12 jail inmates were wounded.

Battlefield communiques said U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division troops guarding the Cambodian border killed 37 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese in two engagements Sunday.

A helicopter gunship killed 30 guerrillas 76 miles northwest of Saigon and a mile from the Cambodian border. Troops of the 1st Cavalry Division a few hours earlier killed 17 guerrillas in a clash 93 miles northwest of Saigon and 15 miles from the border, military spokesmen said.

One American soldier was killed.

U.S. Air Force B52 bombers dropped 150 tons of bombs on what were described as guerrilla base camps, weapons positions and storage areas Sunday in the Seven Sisters Mountains 122 miles west-southwest of Saigon.

Cambodia Wants to Boot Reds

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—Like neighboring Laos, the new Cambodian leadership has asked Britain and the Soviet Union to help get Communist troops from Vietnam off its soil.

The appeal was announced Sunday by the man now in control of the government, Gen. Lon Nol. He has asked Britain and the Soviets, cochairmen of the 1954 Geneva convention that proclaimed Cambodia neutral, to reactivate the International Control Commission (ICC) to "help put a stop in peaceful fashion to the occupation."

An estimated 40,000 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops are believed camped in Cambodia, the main reason behind the parliament's decision to depose Sihanouk as chief of state last Wednesday.

Sihanouk canceled the mission of the ICC, made up of troops from India, Poland and Canada, in Cambodia last year, claiming his government could not afford its part of the support.

From London, Britain said it has not yet received Long Nol's request but stood ready to react if required.

Britain has expressed its willingness to help in Laos, too, but the Soviets have vetoed the Laotian government's request for consultations among the Geneva signatories on settling the invasion of an estimated 67,000 North Vietnamese troops.

Lon Nol said that in addition to the request to Britain and the Soviets, he has begun consultations with Viet Cong and North Vietnamese diplomats in Phnom Penh "to obtain withdrawal of their troops."

The order from Lon Nol that all vestiges of Sihanouk be removed from public places coincided with an announcement from Peking from the ousted prince that he had no intention of returning.

Nevertheless, the new leadership told foreign airlines their planes would be confiscated if they brought Sihanouk back, and issued a list of Sihanouk's friends or relatives who could not enter or leave the country.

The list included Sihanouk's wife, Princess Monique, now with him in Peking, and his mother, Queen Kossomak, still in Cambodia.

Sihanouk's announcement from the Communist Chinese capital, carried by the New China News Agency, said Moscow and Peking had agreed to let him live in exile in the two capitals.

Long Cheng Base—A U.S. Blue Chip in Laos

WASHINGTON (AP) — High ranking U.S. officers say the loss of the key Laotian base town of Long Cheng would seriously reduce the effectiveness of the most reliable troops fighting the North Vietnamese and Pathet Lao.

Long Cheng, 80 miles north of the administrative capital of Vientiane, is a logistical, administrative and political center for the anti-Communist Meo tribal army, which American military leaders say rates as "a pretty high blue chip on our side."

The Meos, headed by Gen. Vang Pao, are credited with doing most of the effective fighting against the North Vietnamese-Pathet Lao over the past several years.

Without them, there would be little left but the unreliable Royal Lao Army—unless there is more help from the outside.

According to the view of U.S. officials in Washington, impairment of the Meo's effectiveness would put the pro-Communist Pathet Lao in their best political position in eight years of off-and-on fighting and enhance their position in a possible negotiated settlement with the present Laotian government.

Senior U.S. military officers, some of whom have had years of experience in Southeast Asia, were rather slow in acknowledging the current Communist offensive may be more serious than in past years.

There is no uniformity of opinion yet on just what the North Vietnamese and Pathet Lao are up to this year.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird, without tipping his own view, told reporters last week opinion within the U.S. government is divided on whether the Communists will try to take over Laos.

The high-ranking military men say the North Vietnamese and Pathet Lao may go further than trying to take Long Cheng, a position the Communists have reached in recent days in their drive southwest from the Plain of Jars.

These officers acknowledge the Communists may try to cut the highway between the royal capital of Luang Prabang and Vientiane and thus interrupt all commerce and ground movement between the cities.

Also, American officers foresee the possibility that the Communists might attempt to put pressure on the Mekong River valley, which borders on Thailand.

Goldberg .. If Elected ... Tax, School Fund Reforms

By United Press International

Arthur J. Golberg, candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, says he would combine tax reform along with a state takeover of the entire financing of local education costs if he is elected.

"The state structure in New York does not permit localities to have the requisite means of collecting money," Goldberg said Sunday in New York City.

Goldberg, former U.S. Supreme Court justice, federal labor secretary and ambassador to the United Nations, declined to give specifics of a tax reform program, saying only that the state needs more revenue.

"It's a state responsibility to finance public schools," he said. "The state is the party that can collect the money."

Goldberg was critical of the Nixon administration's handling of the postal strike. He said the government should have moved to prevent the strike and made a mistake in holding up a postal pay raise until it could get congressional approval of post office reform.

In other political events, two candidates for the Democratic nomination for U.S. senator both predicted that they would win the party's nomination.

Rep. Richard Ottinger of Westchester County told newsmen that he would win the June primary by taking his campaign "to the people."

"This is how I've run my campaigns for Congress," Ottinger said.

One of Ottinger's five opponents, Rep. Richard McCarthy of Buffalo, predicted that he will receive "the greatest number of votes at the state committee meeting."

The Democratic state committee is due to vote in early April on the endorsement of candidates for statewide office. Under state law, any candidate who receives at least 25 per cent of the votes at that meeting is accorded a spot on the primary ballot.

McCarthy told newsmen that he supports the candidacy of Goldberg for governor, but Ottinger, although characterizing Goldberg as "one of our most prominent" Democrats, said that he would have to "prevail in the primary, just like everybody else."
